DEDICATED TO THE SERVICE OF HOSPITALS

A Lifetime of Service

The manifold problems of the superintendents, matrons and medical staffs of hospitals and institutions have been studied by J. H. Bounds in person for many years. He has organised a service which for intimate knowledge of hospital needs, can hardly be rivalled. The "Stethos" trade-mark is accepted as the sign of unvarying quality.

Nursing Uniforms Made to Measure

This is a unique and pioneer department. There is no mass production in the Stethos factory; each job is individually carried out by specialists, from a wonderful range of materials. J. H. Bounds is often commissioned to design new uniforms and institution garments.

Operating Theatre Uniforms in Restful Colours

J. H. Bounds, after long and patient research, introduced the cornflower-blue and bottle green shades for the Operating Theatre. Since the long-felt and expressed needs of surgeons have at last been carried out, these special Theatre Uniforms have met with an enthusiastic response.

Bandage Cloths

"Stethos" Bandage cloths constitute a range of specialities precisely answering every hospital need. The materials for orthopaedic work have been highly commended. Quality B.M.14 "Black Muslin" is commended in a standard work on dislocations and fractures. Every other type of bandage textiles supplied in highest quality.

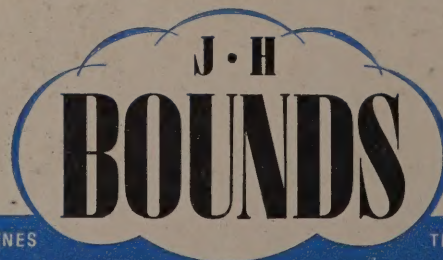

Hospital Bedding and Textiles

"Stethos" Bedding equipment has long established a reputation for its attention to modern ideas. J. H. Bounds anticipated the new feeling for colour in the wards. The "Stethos" guaranteed fully shrunk blankets are used in the largest hospitals and stand the severest tests of wear and endurance. Certified by the Institute of Hygiene.

Shoes

"Stethos" shoes represent comfort for the nurse on duty. They are specially designed and made for J. H. Bounds to a specification drawn up to meet a nurse's needs. Special arch supports and shock-proof cuban heels safeguard the feet from fatigue and strain. But to this is added a touch of smartness and style.

LIGHTING that is kind. . . .

. . . KIND TO THE EYES OF THE STAFF, enabling them to maintain their vigil, and to perform their duties efficiently and without strain. . . .

. . . KIND TO THE EYES OF PATIENTS, protecting them from the dazzling glare of unshielded lamps, a frequent cause of discomfort, particularly to the sick.

G.V.D. Lighting not only creates better conditions by eliminating varying intensities over the field of vision, but also results in substantial economies; fewer points are needed, fewer lamps and fittings used, whilst current consumption and general maintenance are considerably reduced.

Mr. G. V. Downer, originator of the G.V.D. System, has made a special study of the lighting requirements of Hospitals and Nursing Homes and will be pleased to place his services at your disposal.

Enquiries are invited and literature will gladly be forwarded upon request.

THE STANDARD OF EXCELLENCE

There is no substitute acceptable to the Public which can take the place of Rendells, because it is a product unequalled for quality, safety, and efficacy.

When one article has set and maintained such a standard for over half a century common sense urges the wisdom of displaying and recommending it

WHEN a deaf aid becomes necessary for your patient—we place a specialised organisation at your disposal. Such are the varying degrees and forms of deafness that no one type of aid can possibly suit the particular needs of the many different cases—for this reason, our service includes the free testing of the patient by the "Ardente" AURAMETER—whereby the exact aural needs are determined and plotted by graph. Thus an aid VALVE TYPE, BONE CONDUCTION, ELECTRICAL OR NON-ELECTRICAL most suited to the patient's needs is assured—and no expense is incurred until the patient is satisfied—with HEARING.

THE HOSPITAL YEAR

REVIEW BY THE EDITOR

Patients Treated in the Voluntary Hospitals.

THE number of beds in the voluntary hospitals of Great Britain increased during the year 1937 by over 2,500, and the number of patients treated reached the record figures of—

1,387,363	treated in the wards, and
6,421,017	in the out-patient departments.

Owing, however, to the fact that 57 fewer hospitals gave particulars of their work than in the previous year it is not possible to state the actual increase in the volume of their work during the year.

It is significant that 2,155,414 of the out-patients, or one-third of the total number, were treated at the 42 hospitals associated with medical schools.

The percentage of beds constantly occupied in the larger general hospitals remains very high, the average for all hospitals having over 125 beds being 87·70 per cent. as compared with 88·25 per cent. in the previous year, although there was a considerable increase in the number of beds provided.

Voluntary Hospital Finances.

During the year 1937 the voluntary hospitals as a whole

Received for all purposes	18,713,887
Spent on maintenance, new buildings and equipment	18,226,124
Leaving a balance of... ..	487,763 available for the purposes of investment or to meet the costs of present and future extensions. The surplus was £25,762 lower than for the previous year, but it must be remembered that the figures refer to 57 fewer hospitals. London was the only area which did not have a surplus.

We are again indebted to Sir Charles Harris, G.B.E., K.C.B., Honorary Financial Consultant to the Central Bureau of Hospital Information, for the Financial Review which appears on page xlvii.

The State and the Voluntary Hospitals.

There are many to-day who hold the view that if voluntary effort is to play any except a gradually decreasing part in the health service of the State, it must receive financial support from the State.

With regard to this matter there is some misunderstanding. There is no reason why a State should not show sympathy with voluntary effort by giving financial aid and so help it to carry on and extend and improve the service which it originally undertook and which might quite reasonably be regarded as its appropriate function. But for reasons which it is not necessary to go into here, circumstances have imposed upon voluntary effort functions it was never intended it should undertake and which have gone largely unrecognised. It was, for example never intended that voluntary effort should provide State Casualty Clearing Stations for road and rail, for fire and flood, or any of those disasters that from time to time fall upon communities.

The voluntary hospitals possess invested funds and receive annual donations and subscriptions that are sufficient in themselves to carry out their appropriate work. And in extending that work (e.g. the education of doctors and nurses), they have created a moral and physical organisation of proved worth, to this extent at least, that no country such as ours would dream of superseding it by one in which voluntary effort played no part. Theoretically there is no reason why voluntary effort with State support and with appropriate safeguards should not undertake the entire health services of the community so far as the institutional treatment of the sick is concerned, even where the complaints treated are of a character generally considered as a danger to the community. But the time for such an experiment has gone past, and it is no longer possible to divide into two the services which a community requires, handing over to voluntary effort certain functions and to the State the remainder. The only possible way is to attack the problem regionally. Where in any region voluntary effort has created a service that can be regarded as a satisfactory foundation upon which to develop, development should be the main financial responsibility of the State and voluntary effort should be subsidised for the purpose. Where on the other hand voluntary effort, whether by reason of the poverty of the neighbourhood or from some other cause, fails to provide a service up to a reasonable standard, then obviously the State must step in and do what is required. In the remaining cases where State Hospitals and Voluntary Hospitals are working side by side, a compromise must be arrived at which avoids the danger of costly competition and agrees upon a reasonable division of work.

It is a little unfortunate that the importance of this financial relationship has not been realised and that arrangements have already been entered into, mainly upon purely local considerations and certainly without reference to general principles or thought of possible general reactions. Examples of such arrangements will be found in Memorandum No. 132, published in the body of the Year-Book. It is to be hoped that before it is too late the whole subject will be referred to a special Committee competent to hear evidence and to report upon the extent to which voluntary effort requires State grants, the method by which such grants should be administered and the conditions which should be attached to them. Were time of no importance and the conditions of to-day those of seventy years ago, it might be possible to hope that a sound relationship would eventually emerge out of a multitude of haphazard arrangements locally arrived at; but time is the essence of the whole matter and each year conditions are growing more difficult for unaided voluntary effort.

Voluntary Hospitals (Relief from Rating) Bill.

Up to the year 1865 Voluntary Hospitals were never assessed for rating purposes. They were believed to be legally exempt. Had there been any doubt regarding the law they would have secured their position in 1843 when Societies instituted for the purpose of Science, Literature and the Fine Arts, using the precedent of the privilege then enjoyed by the Voluntary Hospitals, obtained exemption from assessment by a special Act of Parliament.

In 1865 a decision of the High Courts was given to the effect that property occupied for public purposes is rateable. The interpretation of this decision, as covering Voluntary Hospitals, has been questioned several times and is still questioned by eminent counsel. The Voluntary Hospitals, however, cannot afford to fight a test case. Their only practical remedy is the promotion of a Bill in Parliament.

For some time after the year 1865, in spite of the decision in the Courts, the assessing authorities treated the Voluntary Hospitals much as they had been accustomed to treat them in the past. Assessments were in many cases nominal; and there grew up the belief that it was wiser to trust to the benevolence of the assessing authorities than to promote a Bill in Parliament.

This belief has, however, led to the present unsatisfactory state of affairs. As expounded to-day, the law gives the assessing authorities no right to show benevolence. It is their duty to assess in accordance with certain directions that have been given them by the Central Valuation Committee; directions so variously interpreted that the Voluntary Hospitals are obliged either to go to the trouble and expense of appeal or to accept any assessment the authorities may like to impose.

The following table (in which the figures have been reduced for the sake of comparison to a uniform basis) shows what is happening.

But for the unfortunate decision of 1865, which was certainly never aimed at voluntary effort, millions of pounds gathered laboriously and at great sacrifice would not have been diverted from their object—the treatment of suffering and accidents—to other purposes for which money to any desired amount was available through the rates.

It is the irony of fate that hospitals should now have to plead for the recovery of a privilege their former possession of which was accepted as a sufficient reason for granting a similar exemption to Scientific Societies.

The amount involved is approximately £250,000 and the effect upon the rates of the country as a whole is infinitesimal, as shown by the following table.

No answer has ever been given to the following reasons why hospitals should be exempt from assessment, viz. that—

1. Voluntary benevolence ought to be encouraged and not discouraged.
2. If charitable institutions be taxed, the generous supporters of them are doubly burdened, by their contributions to the charities, and by the payment of the same rates as those who support no charity at all.
3. The money the charitable give for charitable purposes has already been taxed in their own assessments, and, not being of the nature of a business profit, but of a free gift, ought not to be subjected to a further tax.
4. There can exist no doubt that the additional payments of the ratepayers, in consequence of exemption of charities will be so fractional as to be inappreciable, and it cannot be supposed that the slightest objection will arise from ratepayers, who have a large and often a practical interest in public charities.

The following is a list of some of the classes of property which enjoy exemption and for which there has been no contribution from state funds to make good any loss to local rates :—

Non-provided Schools	under	Section 167(1) of the Education Act, 1921.
Churches and Chapels	„	Poor Rate Exemption Act, 1833, S. 1 and 2.
Sunday and Ragged Schools	„	Sunday and Ragged Schools (Exemption from Rating) Act, 1869.
Scientific Societies	„	Scientific Societies Act, 1843.
Public Parks	„	decision in House of Lords, 1897.

Canals	under various Acts, sometimes wholly exempt, sometimes partially.
Lighthouses	„ Section 731 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894.
Property of the Thames Conservancy	„ Thames Conservancy Act, 1894, S. 289.

A Bill entitled “ Voluntary Hospitals (Relief from Rating) Bill ” has been introduced in the House of Commons by Mr. Herbert Williams, M.P., on behalf of the Voluntary Hospitals, but up to the time of going to Press an opportunity has not been found for its consideration.

Charitable Collections (Regulation) Bill.

Bogus collections by crooks in the name of charity have in recent years multiplied to such an alarming extent that they constitute a public scandal. A Joint Committee of the House of Lords and the House of Commons, after hearing evidence from a large number of witnesses, reported that legislation was definitely required for the prevention of fraud and the control of “ the growing nuisance of quasi-charitable house-to-house collections.” A Departmental Committee of the Home Office investigated the problem some years earlier and reported that there was “ an almost unanimous opinion on the part of the witnesses who appeared before us that the method of collection which demands control more than any other (except street collections) is that of door-to-door collections. The fraudulent enterprises which have been brought to our notice depend for the most part on these collections. It is clear people often give the canvassers money merely to get rid of them, and in view of the police witnesses their control would quickly cause these fraudulent ‘ charities ’ to die of starvation.”

Attention was called to the fact that street collections and door-to-door collections differ from appeals by post or advertisement in that the person appealed to cannot escape or ignore requests, but must give or refuse money on the spot.

The fact that a Bill having as its object the licensing of house-to-house collections is likely to become law in the near future will give satisfaction to all supporters of voluntary hospitals and other reputable charities. The Bill gives power to the police to refuse a licence on a number of grounds, and in consequence it is hoped that when it becomes law householders will no longer find it necessary to question the bona fides of the organisation they are asked to support.

THE HOSPITAL YEAR

During the Debate in the House of Commons it was stated that many people who, prior to control of street collections, had abused that form of collection, had in recent years turned their attention to house-to-house collections, and that that form of collection had increased during the last few years by from 400 to 500 per cent. This growth is partly explained by the fact that it is known that in many instances an employee of a bogus organisation, finding the ease with which money collected in the name of charity can be misapplied, has started a similar organisation for his own benefit. The extent of the evil can be readily appreciated from the following instances, which were referred to in the evidence given before the Joint Committee of the House of Lords and the House of Commons and during the Debate in the House of Commons.

1. A Society which collected used clothing, second-hand furniture, etc., ostensibly for the benefit of hospitals and other charities realised by the sale of these goods the sum of £26,000, but the proportion of this sum which was handed over to charitable organisations was approximately 3½d. in the £, the remainder being accounted for by "expenses."

2. A Society which collected over £1,000 for toys for the children of the unemployed actually spent 6s. 8d. for toys, and with the law as it stands the police were unable to take any proceedings because a sum had actually been spent upon the objects for which the money had been given.

3. A so-called "Society" which collected in the name of hospitals was founded by a man who had been convicted on three occasions for larceny and also for housebreaking. At a later date he was employed as a hotel waiter. This man, while making a collection in a Provincial town on behalf of the local hospitals, was asked: "What contributions have you made to the local hospitals?" and replied: "None, they have not applied to us." He was shown to have collected £79 out of which £2 2s. had been paid to hospitals.

If the Charitable Collections (Regulation) Bill becomes law it will be necessary for the promoter of a house-to-house collection, as from the 1st of January, 1940, to obtain a licence from the local Police Authority authorising him so to do. The licence may be granted for a period not exceeding 12 months. The Police Authority will have power to refuse to grant a licence, or if granted may revoke it, on any of the following grounds:

(a) That the amount of the proceeds of the collection applied for charitable purposes is inadequate.

(b) Excessive remuneration.

(c) That the holder of the licence is not a fit and proper person by reason of his having been convicted of fraud or dishonesty.

(d) That the holder of the licence has failed to exercise due diligence in securing fit and proper persons for making a collection.

(e) Refusal or neglect to supply reasonable information.

The Secretary of State will be empowered to make regulations to prevent annoyance to householders; for the furnishing of information regarding the expenses of collections and the application of the proceeds; for the collectors to wear badges of an approved type indicating the purpose of the collection; and stipulating a minimum age limit for collectors.

The Bill provides for exemption in the case of charities operating throughout the whole of England or a substantial part thereof. No similar provision is made in respect of voluntary hospitals, and in consequence it would be necessary for them, in many cases, to make application to three or even more separate Police Authorities. The hospitals claim that their work is essential to the areas which they serve and that there is far more reason that they should have freedom to collect systematically from residents in that area than a charity which operates over a wide area but which has no special local claims. This point is being raised in Parliament on behalf of the voluntary hospitals.

Hospitals in a National Emergency.

Hospital arrangements for an emergency have been organised by the Ministry of Health after consultation with the Local Authorities and representatives of the Voluntary Hospitals in various parts of the country. The basis of the emergency scheme is the classification of hospitals into the following classes:—

CLASS I A.—All the larger hospitals whether situated in the inner or outer areas which are now dealing, or can without difficulty deal with both medical and surgical casualties. This group will include general hospitals, the more modern public assistance institutions, special hospitals which have facilities for general work and certain of the larger infectious diseases hospitals.

CLASS I B.—Smaller hospitals and certain special hospitals which would be used principally for giving treatment to the less injured and not as a rule for providing in-patient treatment. In many cases these hospitals will be designated as First Aid Posts.

CLASS II.—Hospitals in this class are those not suitable for undertaking in-patient treatment in the initial stages and would be used for the reception of convalescent cases, chronic cases, and other in-patient treatment not requiring special facilities.

Special hospitals will be included in one or other of the foregoing classes according to their facilities and the type of work done. If the hospital's speciality is such that it could, without difficulty, at short notice undertake casualty work it will be included in Class I A.

The scheme provides for the linking up of hospitals receiving casualties in the more vulnerable areas to selected hospitals in distant towns, and for the transfer of patients to the latter after they have received the necessary initial treatment. The main reason for this plan is to enable arrangements to be made in advance for the necessary skilled personnel and equipment to be available away from the most vulnerable centres.

This scheme of affiliation of hospitals and the transfer of patients will only be applied to the largest centres of population, and every hospital which will take a part in the emergency hospital scheme will not be affiliated to other hospitals.

Hospitals in the smaller towns which are not affiliated for the purpose of receiving patients will, however, be linked for the purpose of the availability of skilled personnel so far as this can be arranged.

At the outset of an emergency, hospitals will be requested by the Ministry of Health to send home all patients for whom institutional treatment is not essential, with the exception of those whose homes are in areas being evacuated. In addition some patients still in need of treatment will be transferred from the general hospitals in the danger areas to hospitals in the outer areas, partly with the object of making additional beds available for potential casualties and partly to enable the hospital staff to be dispersed.

Transport for evacuation of the first class will be arranged in advance on request to the Women's Voluntary Service for Civil Defence, Tothill Street, London, S.W.1, and for the second class of patient by the Government itself.

Under the proposed scheme of affiliation of hospitals the medical staffs of groups of affiliated hospitals will be divided into surgical teams and the teams will be assigned to the appropriate hospitals. There will also be mobile surgical teams available to deal with exceptional pressure wherever it may occur.

The British Medical Association has established a register of all medical men and women available in an emergency, and a register of trained nurses and assistant nurses is being established by the Central Emergency Committee for the Nursing Profession, Romney House, Marsham Street, London, S.W.1.

Hospitals are expected to make provision in advance of an emergency for the replacement of any lay personnel having prior obligations to the forces.

Hospitals have been asked carefully to consider the steps necessary to protect the vital parts of their buildings, and the Government has undertaken to pay the major portion of the cost of all structural precaution schemes approved by them. The basis of the financial arrangement is that voluntary hospitals should pay 30 per cent. of the total cost or £1 per bed, whichever is the less sum.

The recommendations of the Ministry of Health with regard to structural and other precautions against air raid risks in hospitals are contained in "Emergency Medical Services Memorandum No. 1," price 3*d.* from His Majesty's Stationery Office.

The Minister of Health has appointed Medical Officers, known as Hospital Officers, to work out details of emergency organisation for different parts of the country. The following is a list of these officials.

The Hospitals Year-Book.

The Hospitals Year-Book of 1939 covers a smaller percentage of voluntary hospital beds than that of 1931. This is unfortunate, as each year it becomes of increased importance to the voluntary hospitals that a complete and accurate presentation of the volume of their work and finances upon as uniform a basis as possible should be presented to the public. The Editorial Committee feel, however, that the public will endorse the following letter which has been sent to all the voluntary hospitals outside London, both to those who conform, in order that they may understand why numbers are reduced; and to those who do not, in the hope that the greater interest of the voluntary hospitals as a whole will outweigh any inconveniences uniformity might impose.

A Year-Book is not an end in itself, nor a publication to satisfy the statistical cravings of those who are not engaged in the actual work of building hospitals or of treating patients: it is a publication as essential to the collective security of all hospitals as is its own report to the safety of each individual institution.

The Editorial Committee are glad to say that the letter has already secured more attention than previous appeals; not a few of the replies show a real desire to help them in their task.

27th February, 1939.

THE HOSPITALS YEAR-BOOK.

INTENDED CHANGES IN THE COMPILATION OF THE STATISTICAL AND FINANCIAL TABLES

Dear Sir,

The Year-Book, first published in June 1931, by the Central Bureau of Hospital Information, incorporated matter derived from three then existing publications: Burdett's Hospitals and Charities, the Annual Report on the Voluntary Hospitals of Great Britain published from 1920 onwards by the Bureau, and the Statistical Summary (for London Hospitals only) published by King Edward's Hospital Fund for London. The appearance of the Year-Book was the signal for the disappearance of the first and second of these; but not of the third, which was a whole year ahead in its time of publication, its 1931 issue dealing with the year 1930 while the Year-Book dealt only with 1929. Not only was this first Year-Book bulky and expensive, but its statistics were out-of-date.

The first task of the editorial staff was therefore to make such improvement in these respects as the Bureau itself could produce, at the same time noting points in which the material furnished by individual hospitals was imperfect. On these lines, by 1935 the bulk of the volume (advertisements excluded) had been reduced from 654 pages to 360, the number of Statistical Tables from 120 to 19 and the price to hospitals from 10s. to 7s. 6d.

Attempts were continuously made, during this period, to induce the hospitals to imitate London, where without any real difficulty hospitals of every size rendered their figures to the King's Fund within 3 months of the end of the Calendar Year, so completely standardised that the compiled statistics for London could be prepared within a further 3 months; but the results outside London were disappointing. The highest point reached was in 1933, when of the hospitals outside London (about 890 in number) some 587 rendered their 1932 accounts to the Bureau by 30th June; but in later years in spite of constant exhortations and reminders this effort fell away, the accounts received by that date in 1938 numbering only 492, or little more than half the total. Moreover, even after waiting till November for late arrivals a substantial number of Hospitals (not all small) have to be shut out as too late, and the accounts, as received, are so far from standardised that a further 6 months work is found necessary before publication. It is still found necessary to examine them laboriously, often involving correspondence between Bureau and Hospital, to safeguard such essential points as the proper classification of Income and Expenditure, and the separation of out-patient from in-patient expenditure, as enjoined by the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts, on which the very important costing Tables (16-19) are entirely based; and the variety of the dates to which the accounts are made up aggravates the difficulties. Useful combined statistics cannot be produced by jumbling together figures classified according to the taste and fancy of hundreds of separate accountants, and covering perhaps 30 different periods of 12 months. 80 per cent. of the accountants may adopt the Calendar Year, but if 25 out of the rest adopt (let us say) the year 1st July, 1938-30th June, 1939, do their figures belong to the year 1938 or 1939? And if some of these 25 sometimes send in their accounts in time for the Tables of the earlier year and sometimes only for the later, what becomes of the value of the combined statistics?

In 1937 a final attempt was made by the Bureau to induce some 200 "non-conforming" hospitals to recognise the principle of the solidarity of the Voluntary Hospitals as a whole, under present-day conditions, by accepting a uniform year of account; and Lord Donoughmore (the Chairman of the Committee of the Bureau) on 25th October, 1937, personally signed a letter to the Chairman of each of these hospitals, explaining the importance of the point and inviting his co-operation, asking that any difficulty anticipated should be explained in a personal reply to himself and placing the Bureau at the disposition of the hospital if assistance should be required. After reminders, renewed offers of help and further explanations, extending over 13 months, the results of the correspondence at the middle of November last may be summed up as follows: 53 had agreed to make the change; a slightly larger number (58) had not even acknowledged the letter, 10 were still perpending, 7 could show legal obstacles (not, of course, insurmountable) owing to mention of dates in Charters, Trust Deeds, etc.; 12 held it necessary to conform to the financial year of Municipal bodies from which they received grants, and ignored official letters sent to them by the Bureau showing that the Ministry of Health and the Board of Education saw no reason why they should so conform; and the rest (about 50 in number) either refused flatly, or, having alleged difficulty (frequently of a personal character), maintained their attitude when shown how the difficulty could be completely obviated; e.g., to Hon. Auditors who found themselves too busy with other work in January, it has been explained that provided the books were closed as at 31st December, the preparation and audit of the accounts could be done at practically any time to suit their convenience; but they remain "of the same opinion still."

There being no hope of further advance in either quality or punctuality of the statistics from renewing appeals so received, the Bureau must choose between figures less complete but sound as far as they go, and a plan including more hospitals, but only by admitting figures which falsify the whole scheme, as well as so delaying the publication as largely to destroy its value on that ground also. About this choice there could be no hesitation; and it has been decided that in the Edition of the Year-Book next following that containing the figures of 1937 (now in course of preparation for the press) the inclusion of any Hospital's figures will be subject to the following rules:—

- (1) Figures which do not reach the Bureau by the 30th September, 1939, at latest, will be too late for inclusion in the Tables; up to 9 months being thus allowed in the current year for work which every Hospital in London completes in 3 months. In subsequent years, this 9 months period will be progressively and substantially shortened.
- (2) The figures of Hospitals which do not adopt the standard accounting period of the Revised Uniform System (the Calendar Year) will not be included in the Tables.
- (3) The 1938 figures of Hospitals whose accounts do not follow the standard (R.U.S.) classification of Expenditure but are in other respects satisfactory will be included in the Tables as far as possible, distinguished by a characteristic mark.
- (4) Hospitals which decline to separate out-patient from in-patient expenditure in accordance with the R.U.S. will be excluded from Tables 16-19; but a List of them will be published, with marks indicating the features that have led to exclusion.
- (5) A Hospital which, while not apportioning its out-patient and in-patient expenditures on approved R.U.S. lines, estimates the cost of an out-patient attendance on lines of its own, so that a total weekly cost for an occupied bed (Tables 16 and 17) can be arrived at, though not analysed under approved Heads of Expenditure, will be retained in those Tables for one more year (if necessary), with a distinctive mark, to allow time for making the change to the R.U.S. If it finds difficulty in doing this, the Bureau will be glad to give any necessary help or advice. If the change is not made in the figures for 1940 at latest, the Hospital will be removed from the Table (16 or 17) to a special List of non-conforming Hospitals giving unanalysed totals for the weekly cost of an occupied bed.
- (6) In future any Hospital furnishing figures for the first time to the Bureau must comply fully with the Revised Uniform System; but in case of doubt or difficulty the Bureau, on application, will gladly give assistance.

Yours faithfully,

R. H. P. ORDE.

Many of our readers will have heard with regret that Mr. Orde was admitted to hospital early in April for an operation. We are glad to be able to say that he is making satisfactory progress and that it is hoped it will not be long before he is able to return to his duties.

We are grateful to Miss Frances Goodall,

May 1939.

Mr. S. P. Richardson, and Mr. G. A. Thompson, who at short notice have kindly contributed articles on subjects which had been scheduled for inclusion by Mr. Orde prior to his indisposition. Our thanks are also due to Mr. T. W. Place, who has kindly written an article explaining the new Contributory Scheme for Civil Servants.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

By SIR CHARLES HARRIS, G.B.E., K.C.B.

(Late Permanent Head of the Finance Department, War Office.)

Hon. Financial Consultant to the Central Bureau of Hospital Information.

THIS series of Financial Reviews, beginning in the Year-Book of 1932 (figures of 1930), has recorded annually the measure of success attending the efforts of the Central Bureau of Hospital Information to arouse the Voluntary Hospitals outside London to the necessity of punctual and standardised accounting as the essential foundation of the combined statistics which are a feature of the Book. The end of these efforts is to be read in the circular letter of February 27th, issued to those hospitals by the Bureau and reprinted in the Editor's Review of the Hospital Year in this volume. After a long and patient struggle to produce improvement by appeals and exhortations had met with an almost complete lack of response from the hospitals, that method was abandoned and the Bureau has entered on a new path. To each hospital outside London there has been sent a final invitation to collaborate in the preparation of defensible and reasonably punctual statistics, for the Year-Book to contain the figures of 1938, with an intimation of the consequences to follow from further persistence in masterly inactivity; and there are already signs that this approach will not be in vain. In future years, it may be hoped, the space hitherto devoted in this Review to the ineffectual chronicles of unpunctuality will be put to better purpose.

In this Year-Book, the last on the unreformed plan, it may be of interest to show in what degree the well-meant effort of the Bureau to gather in late-comers has been capable of distorting the statistics.

Table A (beds) of the Summary at page 47 shows that of 1095 hospitals in the Directory only 951 (85,825 beds) furnished their 1937 figures in time for publication. A year earlier the number was 1008 hospitals (86,763 beds), showing a falling off of 57 in the number of hospitals (938 beds). Retrogression on this scale had not occurred before; and where the whole standard of statistical accuracy was so low, it had not seemed worth while to complicate the Tables by making corrections for the fact that figures set out in them as though comparable related not only to different years but also to different collections of hospitals. But, this year, it is not that 57 hospitals included in the figures of 1936 are missing in 1937, but that there are 75 such hospitals missing, while at the same time 18 others, included in 1937, were missing in 1936; the main cause being that there has seemed to be in each year an active competition between hospitals, with varying fortunes, to be "last man home." To compare like with like therefore—the performances of the same collection of hospitals in the two years—it is necessary to reduce the numbers in the Tables to 933 (1008 minus 75, or 951 minus 18), so that nearly 15 per cent. of the hospitals in the Directory, and over 7 per cent. of those which gave figures in 1936, are not included—and not all of them are small.

The Bureau has worked out (at my request) the rectifications in Table 3 (Maintenance Income and Expenditure: Surpluses and Deficits) necessary to convert it into a comparison of like with like for 933 hospitals in 1936 and 1937. The most significant figures in the new Table are reproduced at the top of the next page, with the corresponding figures in the original Table 3 below them in italics for comparison.

Taking Grand Totals, the figures of Table 3 in the Year-Book show Income rising by £532,771 (from £14,750,137 in 1936 to £15,282,908 in 1937) and Expenditure by £670,155 (from £13,827,754 to £14,497,909) giving a shrinkage of £137,384 in the Net Surplus (from £922,383 to £784,999, agreeing with page 48). But these are the figures for 1008 hospitals in 1936 as against 951 in 1937. In fact, for the 933 hospitals which really come into the comparison, the increase of income was £831,581, and of expenditure £955,129, as the rectified Table shows. This gives a shrinkage in the Net Surplus of £123,548 (from £907,225 to £783,677) which differs from the uncorrected figure by only some £14,000; but the actual sizes of the growth of income (over three-quarters of a million) and of expenditure (very nearly a million) preclude any attempt to draw sound conclusions from the trend of income and expenditure as pictured in Table 3; and show how essential it is, for the future, to avoid the "popping in and out" of casual laggards. It is not possible, within the compass of a review, to extend the process of rectification to other Tables, but there are some points worth noting in the uncorrected figures.

The Summary of Finances (page 48) shows Capital Expenditure in 1937 to have exceeded Capital Receipts in each of the four areas except Ireland, and in the aggregate by £297,000, following an excess of Capital Expenditure of £409,000 in 1936 and in spite of an altogether abnormal capital receipt of £425,000 in London in the shape of the "Annie Zunz" bequest. Under the will of a benefactor who died in 1899, thirty-four named hospitals in the London area have since that time received annual endowments for the maintenance of wards named after the donor's wife; but in 1937 the trust concerned was wound up and the capital of some £425,000 was divided among the hospitals in question, on the sole condition that the wards should be maintained in perpetuity. This capital sum is included among Earmarked Legacies in the £519,000 received under that head in London (Table 7); and with maintenance costs per bed rising as rapidly as they tend to do in London, it is not clear what maintenance in perpetuity may be found to involve in the collection of fresh income.

Of the 933 hospitals giving figures for both 1936 and 1937, the number of individual surpluses fell from 650 in the former year to 632 in the latter. The significant figures showing how many of the 146 hospitals affiliated to King Edward's Hospital Fund had in the last five years five surpluses, four surpluses, etc., down to no surplus, which in recent years I have quoted from the Fund's "Statistical Review," are not available this year, that publication not having appeared.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

Subject to possible qualification from the fact that (as noted on Table 5) the numbers of hospitals classifying their expenditure under the standard heads were 864 in 1935, 903 in 1936, and 853 in 1937, some growth of expenditure per available bed was practically universal in all areas and all size-groups of hospitals, while the growth of income shows more irregularity. In London the sharp fall in Free Legacies which in 1936 produced a deficit in aggregate Maintenance Income, was succeeded by a bumper year of such legacies (£634,000) in 1937; but in other areas, taken jointly, there was a fall of some £100,000 under that head, which was, however, more than balanced (in spite of the smaller number of hospitals covered by the figures) by a small aggregate rise in Voluntary Gifts (£11,000) and a larger rise (£234,000) in Receipts for Services Rendered, the total maintenance income (outside London) being £156,000 higher, while in London fall will soon be again reversed, there is small comfort in this.

In the important Table 4 (analysis of Maintenance Income) the large and growing income from Contributory Schemes, etc., which in this Review for some years past I have allocated to Receipts for Services Rendered rather than to Voluntary Gifts, has now been definitely transferred to the former head, following the line adopted some years ago in the King Edward's Fund publications, and a corresponding transfer has been made, for the purposes of comparison, in the figures of 1936 and 1935. The importance of this change is sufficiently indicated by the fact that these receipts (outside London) grew between 1935 and 1937 from £65.1 to £73.6 per available bed, or in aggregate by £616,000. But there still remain less important differences between the London classification of receipts and that obtaining elsewhere, to necessitate the retention of the

it rose by £376,000, of which £75,000 was for Services Rendered and £205,000 for Free Legacies. Thus, the general trend of the three years is one of rapidly increasing maintenance expenditure all round, with smaller and less steady increase of income, except that from Patients' Contributions, the fortunes of the year coming to depend more and more on the precarious item of Free Legacies. In London in 1937 that item brought the net result back to the surplus side, though only to the extent of about one-tenth of the high average (£547,000) of such legacies for the three years; in the Provinces, the surplus averaged about three-fifths of the free legacies and in Scotland, where legacies have long formed a much larger proportion of total income than elsewhere, the surplus averaged only about one-half of them. In 1937, some little relief was given to expenditure by the definite fall in the general price level which set in about the middle of the year and continued throughout 1938; but as it is to be anticipated—and indeed hoped on general grounds—that the double totals (excluding and including London) on pp. 54 and 55.

I carry on here, in a somewhat improved form, the figures given in previous Reviews to show by how much the maintenance expenditure per available bed (as shown in Table 4) in London exceeds that in the Provinces and in Scotland respectively. (Conditions in Ireland are so far different that comparisons with that area would not be fruitful.)

Not only does the annual expenditure per available bed increase continually in each Area, but the excess of such expenditure in London over each of the other areas is itself growing year by year, and in Scotland the expenditure per available bed only slightly exceeds half the London figure, not only for the largest (Group A) hospitals, but for all kinds and sizes of hospitals together. In considering the significance of this, it is essential to have a clear understanding of what the unit "expenditure per available bed" means and wherein it differs from the unit "annual cost per occupied bed," used in the Statistical Summary of King Edward's Fund and in the Year-Book Tables 16 and 17, except that the average cost of an occupied bed is in the latter taken for a week instead of for a year. Expenditure per available bed is a way of relating roughly the whole expenditure of a hospital to its size as denoted by that permanent (or quasi-permanent) characteristic, the bed-complement. It takes no count of any patients and makes no distinction between the In-patient and Out-patient expenditure, but uses as divisor the fixed number of beds, whether occupied or empty. The cost per occupied bed, on the other hand, first discards the Out-patient expenditure (from which it calculates separately the cost per attendance) and then uses as divisor not the beds but the patients in them. Thus as a hospital fills up its beds, incurring increased expenditure on consumables of all kinds as well as on nursing and other personnel, its figure per occupied bed may be expected to decrease, as the "overheads" by this method are divided over the growing number of patients in bed, and the Out-patients are separ-such accounts as happen to have come in. The chief weakness of the available bed unit is that it gives full weight to the substantial (out-patient) share of a hospital's total expenditure which has nothing at all to do with beds—i.e., that it tacitly assumes a roughly fixed proportion of out-patient to in-patient expenditure—which is very far from the truth if it be applied to, e.g., the twelve London teaching hospitals severally, on the data given in the King Edward's Fund statistical Summary; but the figures before me for the other Areas do not show what proportion of the expenditure of each hospital is devoted to out-patients.

It is, however, clear that there may be reasons for a high expenditure per available bed without any suggestion of uneconomical administration; e.g., if the average occupation of beds is abnormally high, or if the out-patient department is out of proportion to the bed-complement, as might happen in the case of a hospital with a large dental school. The figures below (taken from Table 1 of the Year-Book) show that in the period 1935—1937 there was, in all three of the Areas concerned, some rise in the average occupa-ately accounted for; but the expenditure per available bed will rise, especially if the Out-patient department is expanding, because the divisor (bed-complement) does not increase with the expenditure. Of the two units, that of the expenditure per available bed is much easier to calculate than the occupied bed cost, and has the great merit that where (as hitherto in the Year-Book) the numbers of hospitals and available beds may vary largely, simply from the unpunctuality of hospitals in making up their accounts, the reckoning of all expenditure not in bulk but in proportion to the bed-complement goes some way to avoid the totally misleading results which (as we have seen above) arise from comparing the aggregate expenditures (or incomes) shown by tion of beds (as shown by the higher numbers of in-patients) and some greater activity in the out-patient departments in addition to that proportioned to the growth of beds, but not in any marked degree. But while in each of the Areas the proportion of new Out-patients to the number of beds moved slowly upward from 1935 to 1937, and in the Provinces and Scotland was never far from the number 60, in the London Area that proportion moved from 106 new Out-patients to 110, or nearly twice as high. Moreover, if the proportion for the London Area as a whole is dissected by size-groups (A, B, and C), it will be found that (taking the 1937 figures) the proportions were roughly, Group A (including the teaching hospitals) 120 new Out-patients for each bed, Group B, 83 and Group C, 113; the smallest London hospitals thus taking one-third more Out-patients in proportion to their size than the medium hospitals. For this, however, two reasons may be found: London is the great centre of special work, the proportion of such beds to the "General" being one-half as compared with about one-quarter in the Provinces and Scotland; and the proportion of out-patient work in special hospitals (taken together) to the number of beds is very high as compared with the great majority of general hospitals, especially in the small specials. Thus in general hospitals of under 30 beds, the proportion in London is only 29 out-patients per bed, but in special hospitals as high as 149, and in Scotland the corresponding figures are 11 and 87 respectively; the proportion of special beds being only one-seventh. In the Provinces, where the proportion of special beds is only one-twelfth, the number of out-patients per bed is 87 for special hospitals, against 19 for general hospitals.

In the absence of figures showing directly what part of a hospital's total expenditure may be absorbed by the Out-patient department, a rough average idea may be obtained from the details given in the Statistical Abstract of King Edward's Fund for the London hospitals affiliated to it, with 18,643 beds. In the year 1937, their 1,995,000 new Out-patients gave an average of five attendances each, or 9,975,000 attendances in the year, which cost £105 per thousand, or £1,047,000 in all. The total General Fund expenditure (maintenance) is given as £4,554,000, so that about 23 per cent. of the whole went to the Out-patient departments. If the Year-Book total of Maintenance Expenditure in 1937 (about £9,750,000 outside London) be assumed to include only half the London percentage for Out-patients, the total share of the latter (London included) would be about £2,250,000; and by the method of Tables 4 and 5 this sum, having in fact nothing to do with beds, would be distributed over the several hospitals (or groups of hospitals) as part of the "expenditure per available bed" in a way which is liable to be misunderstood or overlooked. Useful as the "per available bed" unit is, when properly understood, this danger evidently needs to be explicitly guarded against.

In an article in the September 1938 number of "The Hospital" it was stated that whereas The London Hospital pays £7 per bed yearly in rates, Glasgow Royal Infirmary pays nothing; and that the average rating charge in London, on a bed basis, was £5, while in Scotland it was £1. I have no figures to show how important this item may be in the Provinces, but with some 93,000 Voluntary Hospital beds in the whole country a difference anything like that in favour of Scotland would be important.*

To the exceptionally large expenditure on out-patients and the heavy charges for rates, there may be added a third factor in London's high expenditure per available bed: in the field of Nursing Staffs there has been of late, and still is, "a certain liveliness"; and the Interim Report of the Inter-Departmental Committee on Nursing Services has made proposals of which the financial aspects cannot be other than highly important, though as yet they are only dimly adumbrated. Two years ago, the Sankey Commission on Voluntary Hospitals recommended that a technical Committee should consider a judicious modernisation of Hospital accountancy, to make it more useful for administrative purposes, and in particular to throw light on the true cost of a Nursing department, which the "Revised Uniform System" (now 33 years old) effectually conceals by merging each element of its cost (food, clothing, light and heat, laundry, domestic wares, etc.) indistinguishably with similar expenditure for patients and for other departments of the hospital. Nothing having been done, the cost of Nursing departments is not even approximately known; but (subject to a reservation by four of its members) the Committee has recommended that a further Committee on the well-known "Burnham" lines for teachers, should make proposals for new emoluments, with the definite expectation that the substantial increases to result in cost will be repaid to the hospitals from public funds. With present costs unknown and the future depending on a Committee still unborn, it is impossible to say anything on the subject in terms of money; but in the 1938 edition of the Year-Book, very valuable "Particulars of Nursing Staffs employed" in and outside London, furnished by some 800 hospitals, were tabulated and summarised (pp. 12—33). The hospitals are arranged in classes by Area, kind, and size, and the number of beds per nurse (all ranks) worked out for each hospital and also averaged for each Area and description. Specimens are shown on p. lii.

It goes without saying that the unit "beds per nurse" in each individual hospital must be largely influenced by the kinds of patients catered for as well as by the architectural lay-out, internal arrangements, and other features of the hospital; and in these matters hospital design in the past century has of course made real advances, so that age alone may heavily handicap those old institutions which have not yet been modernised or rebuilt; and in addition to the question of working hours there may well have been other considerations that influenced the purely statistical presentation of the subject in the 1938 Year-Book. But with so large a proportion of the Voluntary Hospitals of the whole country brought to the test of this yard-stick, it is difficult to avoid the conclusion that the striking uniformity of the results shown in the last column of this Table has a real meaning, closely connected with the higher level of hospital expenditure in London. "Quod semper, quod ubique, quod ab omnibus."

It may be, indeed, that the main meaning of the Table to-day is that London has been before other areas in "liberalising" the Nurse's life, and that the resulting standard of expenditure per available bed, so far as Nursing costs go, is a fore-taste—possibly only a pale shadow—of what Hospitals outside London have to face in the near future. But, if so, the question is of such transcendent importance for the future of the Voluntary System that, before the national Exchequer is invited to shoulder permanently the cost of applying universally the London standard or something still higher, some Body representing the experience of hospital administrators outside London even more than inside it—for the London share of the total Voluntary Hospital expenditure of the country is only one-third—should be assembled to consider certain fundamental questions, with a due sense of financial responsibility and full knowledge of the expenditure involved. Among such questions might be :

- (a) How far is the statistical presentation of facts, given by the Year-Book, now substantially accurate and complete?
- (b) Are there good reasons, cogent in London only, why in hospitals of all sorts and sizes, the Nursing Staffs there should be so much larger than they are in hospitals of equal size in other parts of the country which, to judge by their appellations, are doing very similar work?
- (c) What would be the real cost of such increased Nursing Staffs as the answers to (a) and (b) may be found to involve: or (be it added for logical completeness) what savings in future annual maintenance expenditure might be expected to accrue if reductions in such staffs should anywhere appear possible?

AREAS OF HEALTH ADMINISTRATION

THE subject of regionalisation has occupied minds other than those engaged in health services during recent years. As the various activities that go to make up modern civilisation become more numerous and more complex, planning assumes an ever-increasing importance, and for three reasons.

First, to increase the availability of what exists, second, to facilitate improvement, and third, to give the best possible service at the least possible cost. To take an example that would bring home at once the idea that is at the bottom of hospital organisation. In a community that makes any pretence to guarantee, no matter by what means, whether Voluntary or State, a standard of treatment for its citizens which all are entitled to expect, it is no longer to be tolerated that the chance of cure and even of life itself should be dependent upon place of residence, either from the point of view of financial means or of medical and surgical skill available. Regionalisation means nothing more than an ordered effort to ensure to all, no matter what their place of residence may be, facilities for treatment within a reasonable distance and at a reasonable cost, and in many cases at no cost at all.

In any scheme of regionalisation, survey is the essential preliminary. In no place is there clear ground, and, just as architects delight in an unencumbered site but almost invariably have to make the best of things as they are, so those engaged in regionalising hospitals have to take into account much that is the result of a haphazard growth. Physical features, railway lines, the accidental location of hospitals, custom, and tradition have to play their part in the distribution of patients and of doctors and the use to which this or that hospital may have been put. The boundaries, therefore, of a natural hospital Region are not likely to coincide with the boundaries of any other of the divisions into which a country is divided. Such a coincidence, for example, as the boundaries of a Region with the boundaries of the Local Authority would no doubt be an administrative convenience, at any rate in this country, in which it is agreed that the health services of the future shall be the result of co-operation between State and Voluntary effort. But it is at once clear that this advantage must, in many cases, be forgone when we observe the location of the great hospital centres. Some of these are close to the boundaries of as many as three counties and cover with their services sometimes as many more. Fortunately the difficulties here are more apparent than real, and many have, in fact, already been overcome.

Hospital regionalisation must obviously base itself first upon the great teaching hospitals which are generally in the great centres of population, although there are many centres of population in which there are no teaching hospitals. It may well become a matter for consideration in such areas whether for the better distribution of certain services, especially the special and consultative ones, there should not be established in some of them teaching centres where the stimulus of the student does so much to maintain the standard of treatment and to encourage research and progress.

There is also the question of the size of the Region. The Council which is at present engaged with the task of implementing the main recommendations of the Sankey Commission has adopted the word "Region" for a sub-division and a larger area called a "Division." It has provisionally mapped out England and Wales into 14 such Divisions. Within these Divisions a process of regionalisation is going on. There are in many Divisions natural groups of hospitals which have already interests in common. A process of crystallisation brings to light other interests and the advantage of joint action. A single example suffices to make clear the possibilities brought into being by the introduction of some system of co-ordination.

A number of hospitals in a group may for some reason be unable to maintain singly a consultant physician or surgeon, but what is not possible for a single hospital becomes possible for a group, and an area need no longer be left dependent upon a single centre sometimes at a very great distance from one or more hospitals in the group. There are, however, services which can be usefully communised both from the point of view of the patient and of finance. The Regions thus formed, either from the presence of a great teaching centre or from some natural feature, group themselves into Divisions. For example, the Home Counties provide a natural collection of Regions which the predominance of London brings together. The promontory of Devon and Cornwall forms another natural

Division, and so on. The centre of England provides a less easy problem, but even here hospitals are forming themselves into Regions and Regions into Divisions.

The task takes time and cannot be hurried, nor can custom be overridden. The mere suggestion, quite unauthorised, that the boundary between England and Scotland might be overlapped resulted in a protest worthy of the Border. Survey, therefore, and agreement with regard to boundaries are preliminaries to regionalisation. It is intended that in each Division there shall be as complete a hospital service as to justify the belief that no inhabitant of it need go outside its boundaries (except at his own desire) to find treatment for sickness or accident up to a standard recognised as within the competence of a modern general practitioner and a modern qualified consultant.

There are, of course, and always will be, certain services and certain specialists upon which two or more Divisions and even the country as a whole must rely—but to put it in another way, there will be in no Division, any part of which from a treatment point of view could be regarded as a "distressed" area.

The map which is shewn here is of a provisional character only, but it is believed that when the accepted regionalisation map is finally drawn, its lines will not differ in any very marked degree from the one shewn.

Before concluding this necessarily brief article, it may not be without interest to sketch in quite general terms what would appear to be the ideal constitution of a Division for administrative purposes.

Each Division, as has been stated, will be divided into two or more Regions, which in their turn may, to suit local requirements, be themselves divided into Sub-regions. These Regions and Sub-regions will appoint representatives to a Divisional Council, which will have the task of exercising a general supervision over the whole area in order to ensure that adequate services as outlined above are available for all the inhabitants of the Division.

It is abundantly clear that to endeavour to lay down a uniform scheme applicable to the whole country would be to invite disaster. In every Division the organisation must be built up to suit local requirements and conditions, with, of course, a central body in London to supervise the whole.

The closest co-operation must exist between the Voluntary Hospitals in a Division or Region and the Local Authorities. Indeed, in many places, such co-operation already exists to a marked degree. In others it is sadly lacking. In such areas, one of the first duties of a Divisional Council will be to tackle the problem, as, until it is solved, there is bound to be overlapping and consequent waste both of money and energy.

I do not propose to go into details of the actual constitution of Divisional and Regional Councils. They, too, must vary somewhat according to local conditions, and the Sankey Report and the circular letters issued by the Council sufficiently indicate in a general outline what is required.

Perhaps a layman may be permitted to deal quite shortly with the problem from the standpoint of medical services. From the point of view of ordinary hospital working no great difficulties ought to arise. Every hospital must provide accommodation for patients suffering from what I will call the ordinary ills of mankind, particularly emergencies, and in this connection one of the most useful services that a Divisional Council could undertake would be the introduction of a bed register, whereby a practitioner unable to get a patient into his ordinary hospital, would be able to find a bed in another, possibly some little distance away. Such a register would also help to shorten the long waiting-lists to be found in many hospitals. Of course, financial arrangements will have to be made by way of contributory schemes or otherwise, but this again should not cause any difficulty.

It is, however, in connection with specialist services that the benefits of regionalisation will be more readily appreciated. Every Division should where possible provide adequate specialist services whether at one hospital or another, but they should not be provided at more hospitals than local conditions demand. To give an instance. In the rarer branches of surgery, one specialist to a Division might be sufficient. In others one specialist to a Region, and so on, or to put the proposition in another way, there should not be any multiplication of services beyond what the population requires. Many hospitals would, I imagine, be glad to merge a specialist service with that of another hospital, if such a course would contribute to economy and efficient working.

Finally, it is idle to pretend that this vast scheme can be carried through without difficulty. Many will find it hard to realise that the days of individuality in hospital and health services are over, but regionalisation in some form or another must come and come quickly. Old prejudices must be set aside, and while some consideration must be paid to local conditions, local connections, and most important of all, local enthusiasm, it is incumbent on everybody connected with the services to ask themselves the question, "Will this or that suggestion promote or delay the most efficient, and at the same time the most economical service being provided for the community as a whole?"

NURSING PROBLEMS

VIEWED IN RELATION TO THE INTERIM REPORT OF THE INTER-DEPARTMENTAL COMMITTEE ON NURSING SERVICES

By FRANCES G. GOODALL, S.R.N., Secretary, College of Nursing

MANY people think that the Inter-Departmental Committee on Nursing Services (the Athlone Committee) was appointed as a result of the recent sensational press campaign to right the nurse's "grievances." Actually it developed out of requests from the College of Nursing—the first of these as long ago as 1933—for an authoritative survey of the nursing needs of the nation, several attempts having already been made to assess the true position. The most notable in recent years was that of the Lancet Commission in 1932, but the importance of its findings was largely masked by the prevailing phase of unemployment, a factor which always influences the problem of nurse recruitment.

To-day, no amount of unemployment could account for the real shortage of nurse personnel which exists. With the expansion of the health services, both curative and preventive, the public has come to expect many more hours of nursing care per head than ever before. Many factors have contributed to this situation, the most important, perhaps, having been the impetus given by the Local Government Act, 1929. Other influences are the growing faith of the public in hospital treatment and the increasing complexities involved. To meet the demand for more nursing care we now need, in the opinion of the Athlone Committee, some 20,000 new nurse recruits yearly in England and Wales alone; and although the number of nurses sitting for their Final State Examination steadily increases, demand still outstrips supply. Indeed, there is now so much leeway to make up that, in the Committee's view, it will be impossible to over-recruit, at any rate within the next five years.

Recruitment.

The immense problem of demand is further complicated on the supply side by a number of adverse factors—such as the changing age-constitution of the nation (the falling birth and death rates leaving an increasing number of old people to be nursed by a diminishing number of young ones); the "gap" between the school-leaving age and the age for entering hospital during which potential nurses are absorbed into other work; the ever-increasing choice of careers open to women; the wastage, put as high as 50 per cent., of recruits who do not complete their training; and, lastly, the high marriage rate resulting in the loss of a large number of women to the profession.

In order to solve a problem of this magnitude we must obviously first consider the potential nurse, i.e., the school girl. It is well, therefore, that the Athlone Committee should function under the ægis of two Government Departments—not only the Ministry of Health, but, equally important, the Board of Education. In other words, the ground to be covered must include not only the girl at school, but also her teacher. It will be seen at once that if we are to recruit 20,000 new nurses yearly (we are at present recruiting at the rate of 12,000 for approved training schools), we cannot expect to draw them all from the secondary schools. Since the number leaving public and state-aided secondary schools yearly is under 40,000 is it reasonable to suppose that nursing could attract half this number? Clearly then it is to the senior girls from the elementary schools to whom we must look to complete the required strength, and keen young girls from the top forms of the senior schools would find congenial work and professional advancement awaiting them as nurses. Actually, of course, we would like to attract the very best from both educational grades, though not, perhaps, in the proportions envisaged in the Report.

Finance.

Probably the most serious problem confronting nurse-administrators and employers of nurses—hospital boards, nursing association committees and perhaps, to a less extent, local authorities—is that of finance, a factor largely at the root of the present shortage of personnel. Although in the opinion of the Athlone Committee "the profession should be recognised by the State, the public, and the hospital authorities as a service of outstanding national importance," it is one, they continue, that is "mostly rendered, as is that of the teachers, to those who are quite unable to pay fully for it." Thus the factor of benevolence, which up to a point is the nurse's proud privilege, is also her undoing. There are only a certain number of women who can afford to devote their lives to work which, while it brings many intangible rewards, ranks in the financial scale far below most other comparable callings. A special difficulty in the nursing profession is that the young trainee is usually merely an asset to her hospital as a pair of hands; and the remuneration which should be regarded as pocket money only while she is learning her job is raised higher and higher by those who compete for her services without bringing a corresponding increase when training days are over. The difference, therefore, between the salary of the probationer and that of an incomparably more valuable worker, the ward sister, is inconsiderable, rendering the scale of remuneration entirely disproportionate. The teacher, who starts much lower in the salary scale, overtakes the nurse by the time she is 23, thereafter leaving her far behind. The position with regard to pensions, too, though greatly improved in recent years, is still full of inconsistencies, and needs to be treated on national lines as is suggested in the case of salaries. It will have been a relief to many charitable agencies to read that though the Committee consider that raising the nurse's status—chiefly by increasing her salary—is the true solution of the shortage problem they do not propose to make further appeals for voluntary help, but proceed to state the case for support from public funds, with its inevitable corollary, a certain measure of public control. This public money is to be put to two main uses: firstly, it must ensure that the nurse's salary and conditions of service compare favourably with those of similar callings; secondly, it must help to meet the growing expenses of nurse education in the training schools, a service which the Committee regard as of "national importance." The educational part of the grant would, of course, help to pay for the salaries of sister-tutors, the equipment of classrooms and so on. Higher salaries for sister-tutors is a very urgent matter, many of them being at present forced to regard their work as a stepping stone to the better-paid post of matron—a somewhat costly proceeding since a sister-tutor, to be admitted to the approved roll kept by the College of Nursing, must take an expensive course of training, few scholarships being available. If we are to accept the Committee's finding that there is no need for pre-nursing scholarships, associated with general maintenance grants and bursaries, it is to be hoped that the grants for nurse education will include provision for post-graduate scholarships, especially for the sister-tutor courses.

The Test Educational Examination.

The present Test Educational Examination, admittedly a temporary measure, was introduced with the very laudable object of sifting out unteachable candidates whose sheer illiteracy would waste the time of sister-tutor and examiner alike, and whose inadequate grasp of arithmetic would constitute a real danger where the handling of drugs is concerned. It has had, however, some unforeseen results and has aroused much public criticism, even ridicule. Though applicable only to girls who do not possess the School Certificate or its equivalent, the examination has deterred many from making any endeavour to pass it. Owing to the shortage of candidates, however, matrons have often been obliged to accept such girls temporarily, coaching them either from the hospital itself or through the medium of the local education authorities. Thus the probationer and the sister-tutor, both of whom should have been helped by the measure, have had more work thrust upon them at a time which should have been devoted to purely professional studies. In fact, perhaps the chief advantage of the innovation (though on the whole it is a valuable one) seems to have been the bringing together of nurses and educational bodies over a common problem.

Fortunately the "splitting" of the Preliminary State Examination has paved the way for the Committee's recommendation that the Test Educational Examination should fall gradually into disuse, and that the theoretical part of the Preliminary State Examination, anatomy, physiology and hygiene, with perhaps a few test questions in arithmetic, become the more usual mode of entry. Given the co-operation of the schools, this arrangement should have several advantages. It will, generally speaking, prevent that excellent institution, the preliminary training school, from becoming an intensive cramming centre, and will bring it back into the picture as the place in which the young nurse is initiated into the art and science of her craft. It will encourage the secondary school girl to continue her general education together with these special subjects, and it will also be a good recruiting measure in that it will open her eyes, and, it is hoped, the eyes of her companions, to the absorbing interest of the subject. Further, it will lighten the physical strain of the first year in hospital by allowing the young nurse to concentrate on one aspect of her work at a time.

For the recruit from the senior school, who, it is admitted, will probably have to earn her living in other ways between the ages of 15 and 17, and for whom attendance at evening classes twice a week is advised, the case does not seem quite so simple. But education authorities declare that it is the sudden strain of combined theoretical and practical work in hospital several years after leaving school that has been the undoing of this kind of girl; that the serious type whom we should aim at recruiting, and who would make a success of any career, is already accustomed to attending such classes "to better herself" in her free time; that she finds therein change and mental stimulus provided she starts as soon as her regular school days are over, and that many firms already grant concessions to enable their employees to attend continuation classes.

Be that as it may, another contention brought forward by many is that the Committee, by putting so much emphasis on recruitment from the elementary schools, offers little inducement to the secondary school girl to continue her general education; to quote Dr. Balme, "How are the intellectual powers of the better educated girl ever to be given a chance under a system in which the level of nursing training will necessarily have to be adjusted to the capabilities of those more poorly equipped?" In actual practice, however, the candidates should tend to adjust themselves, the educational grade of each class depending largely on the prestige of a hospital as a training school, and the ability of the sister-tutor to adapt her teaching to the majority.

Salaries and Conditions for Nurses.

The Athlone Committee suggests treating salaries and conditions of service separately, the former being regulated nationally on the lines of the Burnham Committees for teachers; the latter to be arrived at by local agreement between the nurses and their employers. In the opinion of the College of Nursing, however, the same machinery could well serve the two objects, provided it were professional in character and solely concerned with the affairs of nurses and their employers. The College has already submitted to the Committee a detailed scheme of national and regional negotiating machinery for the nursing profession, such machinery being in its opinion preferable to anything so rigid as legislation for the control of hours, salaries, etc.

The Assistant Nurse.

On all the foregoing recommendations there is now little difference of opinion, provided financial help be available to put the more costly ones into practice. Even the "splitting" of the Preliminary State Examination is generally conceded as advisable under present conditions, and the problem of the Test Educational Examination seems likely to solve itself. There is one proposal, however, which still causes acute controversy, viz., the recognition and control of the "assistant nurse." Many registered nurses have long foreseen the necessity for this control—for the very same reasons held by those who still oppose it: fear of the uncontrolled activities of the unqualified woman and a real sense of responsibility for the safety of the public. Among those who oppose the control of the assistant nurse are many who, while working in the large voluntary hospitals, have never actually encountered her. Others with a more genuine grievance, for instance the matrons of the smaller training schools, have seen their probationers throw up the regulation training at the first set-back, join the ranks of the assistant nurse, and, because of the gap caused by her defection and the consequent shortage of staff, return to command a salary approximating that of a fully trained nurse.

It is not, however, in the training schools and other hospitals that the position is most serious. Unsatisfactory as this may be, the hospitals do at least appreciate the difference between a nurse who is State Registered and one who is not. Not so the private patient who, ignorant of the practice of some agencies, may, unless advised to the contrary, be called upon to pay the fees of a trained nurse and yet receive the services of an unqualified woman.

Of course, if the assistant nurse is employed in an infirmary for the chronic sick she may be an excellent and devoted woman, fully capable of carrying out simple nursing duties under supervision, though such a worker is more likely to remain in the institution where she is valued. It is the less satisfactory type who, to-day, moves from agency to agency collecting undeserved fees. She it is who constitutes the public danger.

Obviously, control on the lines suggested in the Interim Report is the most reasonable solution, and the trained nurses' organisations supporting this measure are but defending the status of their members. It is felt that legislation enacting that no person other than State Registered nurses or assistant nurses entered on a roll should habitually and for gain engage in nursing the sick can only be beneficial and will provide a very necessary protection to both the nursing profession and the sick public.

Conclusion.

It is impossible in one article to touch on any but the latest aspects of nursing which are so closely bound up with the deliberations of the Inter-Departmental Committee. Any measures which will bring order out of confusion, confidence out of misgiving, and a complete national policy where before was piecemeal administration and undesirable competition, are greatly to be desired.

A HOSPITALS BUYING BUREAU

By GERALD A. THOMPSON, A.S.A.A.

FOR years the essential difference between the voluntary hospitals and other large groups of undertakings has held up the introduction of a central buying organisation. It seemed impossible to make use of the obvious advantages to be obtained from group purchase because every hospital is an independent unit, proud of its own history and dependent largely upon the support of the district in which it happens to be situated. It was feared that competition from such an organisation would estrange local contributors and imperil the income of individual hospitals. In fact the difficulties to which these fears gave rise appeared so insurmountable that the question had almost ceased to arouse interest as a practical proposition. At that juncture, however, Mr. Neergaard came over from the United States and brought with him information that aroused the keenest interest in central buying once again.

He explained that although the difficulties confronting the American Hospitals central buying organisation had appeared equally difficult to get over, the American Hospital Bureau of Standards and Supplies had found a way. With the aid of brochures and statistics he showed that the hospitals in his country were saving more and more money every year through that organisation and proved convincingly that group buying could be made effective without the need of compulsory standardisation and without interfering with the traditional freedom of the hospitals.

Soon after his departure information regarding the central buying scheme in operation for the use of the Allied Schools in England was also obtained, and a scheme was prepared, based upon the experience of these two organisations, to provide the British hospitals with a buying bureau. This scheme was submitted for consideration to the Council of The British Hospitals Association and also to the Council of the Incorporated Association of Hospital Officers and approved by both bodies in principle, with the result that by the end of 1938 a brochure had been prepared and Lord Nuffield had consented to provide the necessary finance. Offices were obtained at No. 8 Grafton Street, New Bond Street, London, W.1, and the new organisation was introduced to the hospitals generally in an article published in the January issue of The Hospital entitled "Function of The Hospital Economies Association." Although a few preliminary enquiries were received in January, from hospitals closely connected with the formation of the new Association, membership was not solicited until after the organisation was registered as a Company on the 8th of February, 1939.

This was the start of an organisation which has been in the minds of those interested in hospital administration, at one time or another, for many years, and it is a propitious start, for the new Association is truly representative of the hospitals it is designed to serve, and like them is being run on strictly non-profit-making lines. The President is Lord Nuffield, with the Hon. Sir William Goschen, Chairman of the London Hospital, as Vice-President, and an Executive Committee composed of Mr. K. A. Layton-Bennett, Member of Committee of Management of the Charing Cross Hospital, Mr. H. Hield, Member of Committee of Management of the General Infirmary at Leeds, Admiral Sir Arthur Waistell, Chairman of the Royal Hampshire County Hospital, and Major R. P. Woodhouse, Vice-Chairman of the British Hospitals Association and Chairman of the Hertfordshire County Hospital.

There is naturally a great deal of work to be done before the Hospital Economies Association reaches maturity, but already orders are being placed daily and the membership is growing steadily although there has not yet been time to introduce the scheme to all the hospitals. Many of the orders already placed have been for miscellaneous items over a very wide range, but three hospitals at least have already placed large contracts through the Association.

In one case a county hospital has handed the whole of its buying over to the Hospital Economies Association, thus using the organisation as an agent. Another county hospital has put the Association in charge of the furnishing for its new buildings, comprising wards, kitchens, offices, dispensary, etc., and a London hospital has placed its meat contract through the medium of the Association. Many other large orders have been placed for such things as crockery, linen, dressings, etc., and good prices have been obtained. This is all most satisfactory, for it shows that the hospitals realise why the organisation has been started and are anxious to co-operate in making it a success.

It cannot be emphasised too strongly how essential this co-operation is, for the best results will not be obtained until hospitals realise that every order they place with the Hospital Economies Association puts the Association in a stronger position with suppliers and so makes good prices more possible.

The old bogey of the local tradesman still persists, however, and in certain cases hospitals have hesitated to join the Association for fear that they would be expected to place all their orders outside the home town. Such fears are quite unjustified, for although it is hoped that all members will make full use of the facilities offered they are left free to place as much or as little of their orders through the Association as seems proper, and there are cases where the local supplier is able to offer his own hospital terms which could not be bettered anywhere else. Nevertheless, care should be taken to assess the real value of local support before making a decision, as in some cases it may be found that a supplier's annual subscription is more than offset by the savings which could be effected by placing the order through the Association.

The American Hospital Bureau of Standards and Supplies divides its work into two categories : purchases under agreements and job purchasing, and this procedure is being adopted by the Association. Purchase under agreements obtained as a result of group orders is real central buying, and job purchasing covers the handling of sundry enquiries which are incapable of being grouped together. Although good savings can be expected on job purchases even in the early days, prices will improve with the growth of turnover. The best results are, however, obtained by participating in group orders.

Here, however, another old argument arises : How can group purchases be made under agreements unless the total requirements for the period of the agreement are known, and how can this information be obtained without standardisation ? Both the total requirements and the grouping of orders are necessary to obtain satisfactory results from these agreements, but elaborate standardisation is not necessary. To begin with, there are a large number of items in general use in hospitals which are already standardised by custom in sufficient hospitals to make grouping practical, and although it does not follow that all the hospitals forming the membership will be able to participate in every group order, they will all find that many of their requirements are common to a number of others and that they can effect savings by purchasing such things by way of group orders placed through the Association.

A preliminary experiment in group purchase was carried out recently, and fourteen hospitals of various types were sent particulars of a specific clinical thermometer with the result that over half of them placed orders and obtained their requirements cheaper than they could otherwise have done. What has been proved effective with thermometers can be equally satisfactory in such things as blankets, sheets, calico, towelling, maid's uniform material, dressing trolleys, butter, tea, coffee, jam, biscuits, stainless steel goods, aluminium ware, enamel ware, envelopes, blotting paper and many other things. This does not mean that those responsible for running the Hospital Economies Association are better buyers than the secretaries and stewards of the hospitals, but merely that through the co-operation of members the Association is able to offer suppliers more attractive orders. These large group orders for delivery over a period are attractive because they enable manufacturers to plan ahead so as to reduce idle machine hours to a minimum and obtain their raw materials when the markets are favourable. They also relieve suppliers from the risks involved in holding large reserves of unsold stock, and all these considerations naturally lead to better prices. Quite apart from savings in price, substantial advantages are obtained in a reduction of tedious work at the hospitals, for all members are asked to do is to notify the Association within a specified time of the quantity of a given commodity they are likely to require. Deliveries, too, will not cause anxiety, because suppliers know well in advance when the goods are required and will plan production accordingly and expect payment after delivery of each consignment.

If the organisation is to be an effective liaison it follows that it must look after the interest not only of the hospitals but of the suppliers as well, and every care is being taken in the administration to effect economies without endangering legitimate trading profits and without infringing proper price restrictions. Members will find, therefore, that there are certain things in common use for which the Association can only quote terms which are equal to the lowest that can be obtained elsewhere. These price restrictions cover a variety of goods, and Swedish enamel-ware and wire-netting will serve to illustrate what is meant. In such cases it is important that the order should go to the Association whenever possible in order to increase the importance of the organisation as a buyer.

Another way in which group purchase is of value is in the allocation of requirements so as to obtain quotations only from suppliers that are capable of executing orders satisfactorily. At first sight it may appear unnecessary to mention this, but the need is illustrated by a complaint recently raised by an important member of a wholesaler's association who explained that one of the most tiresome aspects of the old method of purchase by individual hospitals was that it involved suppliers in a great deal of work to very little purpose.

The Association, however, is equipped with facilities for dividing every tender into its component parts so as to obtain quotations only from a few carefully selected firms specialising in the items for which they are asked to quote, with the result that suppliers have less difficulty in preparing their tenders and a better chance of obtaining substantial orders.

The foregoing gives a brief account of the formation and work of a hospitals buying bureau, but full information can be obtained from the Secretary-Manager, The Hospital Economies Association, Ltd., 8 Grafton Street, New Bond Street, London W.1, and it may not be out of place to add here that he is available to explain the work of the Association at regional meetings if desired. Several regional secretaries have already availed themselves of this service, and have found that it affords the representatives of their hospitals an excellent opportunity of finding out about the Association and of asking questions.

A CONTRIBUTORY SCHEME FOR CIVIL SERVANTS

By T. W. PLACE

THE method of collecting hospital subscriptions from the employees of large industrial establishments, municipal authorities, and commercial houses, by deducting from salaries and wages a small weekly or monthly contribution, has been in operation for many years in various localities.

The introduction of contributory schemes, however, influenced the more general adoption of this method of collecting contributions, and thanks to the willingness of employers to provide accounting facilities for this work, it is exceptional to find any contributor in regular employment who cannot have the contributions deducted from pay if so desired.

The facility of having contributions deducted on behalf of hospitals, hospital funds, and contributory schemes, has now been provided by H.M. Treasury for all Government employees, and the following special Committee instituted by The British Hospitals Contributory Schemes Association, with members of The Civil Service National Whitley Council (Staff Side), has been set up to carry out the administrative details of the scheme.

Chairman :

Colonel Sir Bertram Ford, T.D., D.L., LL.D.,
F.C.A.

Representatives of The British Hospitals Contributory Schemes Association :

Major W. P. Colfox, M.C., M.P.

Captain W. Cockburn, D.S.O., M.C.

O. B. Steward, Esq.

Representatives of The Civil Service National Whitley Council (Staff Side) :

A. C. Winyard, Esq.

G. Chase, Esq.

J. R. Simpson, Esq.

Honorary Secretary : T. W. Place, Esq.

Government employees, both civil and industrial, and pensioners are stationed in every district and with different employing departments, and the special committee mentioned above has been entrusted with the duty of ensuring that the contributions of each employee and pensioner shall be sent to the hospital, hospital fund, or contributory scheme which that employee desires to support.

The method adopted after considerable investigation and with the co-operation and approval of H.M. Treasury, is that as from July 1938 each employee desirous of contributing shall complete a form authorising the deduction and present it to the selected hospital fund or contributory scheme.

The procedure necessary for the enrolment of members by each hospital, hospital fund, or contributory scheme is as follows :

- (a) Obtain from the honorary secretary of the scheme an adequate supply of forms for signature by Government employees.
- (b) Insert the name and address of the hospital or scheme in the space provided on the form.
- (c) Distribute the forms to all Government employees in the area covered by the hospital or scheme.
- (d) Arrange to collect the forms when completed, and after noting whatever details may be required forward the forms intact to the honorary secretary of the scheme.
- (e) Provide each member with a book or card giving full information regarding privileges which the hospital or scheme usually gives to its members.

At the offices of the committee the forms are registered, and arrangements made with the appropriate paymasters for the deductions to commence from the beginning of the following quarter.

At the end of each quarter the paymasters send the total amount deducted to the offices of the committee, where, in accordance with the detailed records, the amount due to each hospital, hospital fund, and contributory scheme is ascertained and duly sent forward.

It is appreciated that the great amount of detailed accountancy necessary to ensure that every beneficiary shall receive its proper quota could not be undertaken by an employer, and The British Hospitals Contributory Schemes Association was adjudged to be the appropriate authority for carrying out this necessary part of the scheme.

The expenses of the special committee are met by a levy on the total amount received, and it is estimated that 5 per cent. or less will be sufficient to meet such expenses.

This scheme does not disturb the arrangements existing between H.M. Treasury, The Hospital Saving Association, and The Hospital Saturday Fund, London, but it now provides similar facilities for all Government employees desirous of supporting any hospital, hospital fund, or contributory scheme.

Further details of the scheme may be obtained from : The Honorary Secretary, The British Hospitals Contributory Schemes Association, Civil Servants Committee, Carlton House, 28, High Street, Birmingham 4.

PARTICULARS OF RESIDENT MEDICAL AND SURGICAL STAFFS

Of the twenty-three hospitals, eighteen appoint Resident Officers to posts of rather greater responsibility than that of the ordinary "House Man" and generally for rather longer periods. In most cases these Officers are responsible (in the first instance) for the discipline of the Resident Staff.

Practice with regard to operative work varies, from, e.g.,

- (a) "Must be a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons. Undertakes a considerable amount of emergency and other operative work."
- and (b) "Undertakes major operations with the sanction of the Honorary Surgeons."

to

A responsibility that is little more than that of the ordinary House Surgeon.

INSURANCE AGAINST THIRD PARTY RISKS.

Limits of Hospitals' Liability

1. THE expression "Third Party Risks" is used here in the restricted meaning of a hospital's legal liability to all persons (other than employees coverable by an Employers' Liability policy) in respect of their death, illness, or personal injury, or of damage to their property, resulting from the fault or negligence of the Hospital Committee or any of its employees (except accidents in connection with motor ambulances and cars). This negligence may be the omission of a duty, or its careless performance, or any act done without reasonable care, or failure to keep the hospital premises in a reasonable state of safety and repair. "Negligence" may be generally defined as a failure to show that reasonable amount of care which an ordinarily sensible person might be expected to show in the same circumstances.

2. Owing to the peculiar relations that exist between a hospital and its patients, and seeing that patients are in a more or less helpless condition, the "reasonable care" that must be exercised with regard to them means a much greater degree of care than is necessary towards persons who are capable of looking after themselves. Negligence in connection with patients (whether free or paying) will mean "want of reasonable care having regard to the condition of the patient."

3. A hospital is not liable for the negligence of a physician or surgeon (whether honorary or paid) in his diagnosis, treatment of, or operation upon a patient, nor for the negligence of a nurse acting under the direct orders of a physician or surgeon, unless it can be shown that the hospital did not use proper care in appointing the medical or nursing staff.

4. A hospital is, however, responsible for the negligence of a house physician or surgeon in the exercise of any duties outside his purely clinical work, as those duties are subject to the supervision of the managing body. For instance, the managing body of a hospital have been held responsible for the failure of their medical superintendent to see that the wards were properly disinfected.

5. A hospital is responsible for the negligence of nurses in the performance of any work that is under the control of the lay authorities. It is probably also responsible for the negligence of nurses in the treatment of patients when no physician or surgeon is present (though this point has not yet been definitely decided), and it is equally responsible whether the treatment is being given in the hospital or in a patient's own home, e.g. maternity cases.

6. A hospital is responsible for the negligence of students, although they receive no pay, if they are actually employed to do work for the hospital, and are not acting under the immediate direction of a physician or surgeon.

Advisability of Insurance

7. The great majority of accidents giving rise to claims for compensation are of little importance, such as slight burns, etc., the claims being usually settled for a few pounds, and if this were all that needed to be guarded against it might hardly be worth while to insure. But there is always the chance of some accident causing serious injury and calling for such heavy compensation that a hospital may have considerable difficulty in finding the necessary money to satisfy it.

8. Besides this, there is undoubtedly a growing tendency on the part of the public to enforce their legal rights against hospitals in the event of any accident happening, and juries are now more ready than they used to be to award substantial damages against hospitals—partly, no doubt, because they assume that nowadays all hospitals are properly insured against such risks.

9. Within the last few years there have been several serious claims against hospitals. In one case £2,000 was awarded to a visitor to a hospital who was seriously injured by slipping up on a loose mat. In another case £1,500 was paid for injuries caused by part of a hospital's boundary wall falling on a passer-by. In another, £500 was awarded in respect of injuries to a child who fell from a hospital window. And in three cases damages ranging from £750 to £3,500 have been awarded in respect of diseases contracted in hospitals owing to failure to take proper precautions to avoid infection.

10. Although such claims as these are no doubt few and far between, a similar accident may happen at any time, and it is therefore recommended that all hospitals should be insured against third party risks—and having regard to the amount of the awards mentioned above, cover up to the amount of £5,000 in respect of any one accident seems to be desirable.

Rates of Premium

11. No distinction is made in third party risks policies between liability to patients and liability to the general public. The amount of premium is usually based on the number of patient beds in the hospital.

12. Insurance against these risks up to an amount of £5,000 in respect of any one accident can be effected at a premium rate of 1s. 6d. per annum per hospital bed. The names of offices offering this insurance at reasonable rates, and particulars of the terms of their policies will be supplied to voluntary hospitals on application to The British Hospitals Association.

13. Many insurance offices now include in their policies a clause indemnifying the hospital staff against their personal liability whilst acting on behalf of the hospital.

14. The usual commission is 15 per cent. of the premium annually.

Points for Consideration when effecting Insurance

15. The main point to ascertain when taking out a policy covering third party risks is that the policy does in fact give the full comprehensive cover required, and that the cover is not whittled away by a number of exceptions. For instance, the cover is often restricted to "accidents," excluding "illnesses"; the liability of the hospital to all members of its staff is excepted, whereas the exception should be limited to those entitled to the benefit of the Workmen's Compensation Acts; notice is required of any alteration of risks—which is impossible in a hospital where new apparatus is constantly being introduced; all lifts, cranes, boilers, machinery, etc., are excepted; the risk of ptomaine poisoning is excepted or specially limited; "reasonable care" is required to be taken by the hospital in certain matters on pain of the policy becoming ineffective; and so on. No policy should be accepted by a hospital without the most careful scrutiny of all the exceptions and conditions it contains.

16. It should be quite clear from the wording of the policy that it covers the hospital against its legal liability in respect of

- (a) all claims that are based on the alleged fault or negligence of any employee, and more particularly of any of the persons mentioned in para. 4 above (as they are often excepted), and whether the accident occurs on or away from the hospital premises, and
- (b) all claims that are made by any person other than an employee who is coverable by an Employers' Liability policy, and
- (c) all claims that arise out of any accident or illness (fatal or otherwise) except those which are already provided against by a policy covering motor-ambulances and cars. Accidents in connection with boilers, lifts and machinery may also be excepted if and in so far as these are in fact already insured against by separate policies.

17. If the policy includes cover against claims in respect of death or illness alleged to be due to ptomaine poisoning or deleterious substances in food or drink supplied by the hospital, the policy should make it clear that the hospital is protected against this risk even in the absence of any fault or negligence on the part of the hospital or its staff.

18. It is usual for policies to fix the maximum amount to be paid in respect of any one accident or occurrence. When deciding what amount this should be, therefore, it must be remembered that, if several persons are injured in one accident, the Insurance Company will not expend more than this maximum limit in satisfaction of all their claims.

19. The total amount to be paid under the policy in the case of several accidents during one year should be unlimited.

(2) The bandage to contain 40 threads per in. of warp and 24 threads per in. of weft and to weigh not less than 135 grn. per bandage 2 in. wide by 4 yd. long.

BLANKETS

All Wool and Union

In order to ensure the best possible specifications, samples of both all wool and union blankets were obtained from a number of hospitals which were known to have bought well and from various manufacturers. A selection of these blankets was then made by a textile expert co-opted to the committee. The samples thus selected were tested first by the Bradford Conditioning House and later by the Launderers' Research Association.

Upon the results of these tests the following specifications have been evolved :—

All Wool

Size, 64 in. by 84 in.

Weight, 4¼ lb.

Composition, all wool.

Threads per in., warp 30; weft 28.

Tensile strength (6½ in. by 6½ in.), warp 320 lb.; weft 230 lb.

Weave, 2/2 twill.

Tested on a Goodbrand power-driven machine of 1,000 lb. capacity, rate of traverse 18 in. per min.

Union

Strength, warp 350 lb.; weft 270 lb.

Testing machine, 1,000 lb. capacity.

Speed, 18 in. per min.

Width of specimen 6½ in.

Distance between jaws 6½ in.

COTTON WOOL

The wool specified below is intended solely for surgical purposes. The committee would emphasise that for repacking, etc., tow or grey wool should be used.

"R" Hospital Quality

Hospital absorbent cotton wool, composed of well carded cotton fibres, well bleached to a good white. One gramme of the material compressed to a volume of about 20 ml., and placed lightly by means of forceps on the surface of water at about 20 deg. Cent. should sink or become saturated within 10 sec. The material should offer an appreciable resistance when pulled and when subject to sterilisation the fibre must not be destroyed or damaged.

Average length of staple not less than $\frac{7}{16}$ in.; water extract not more than 0.5 per cent.; ash not more than 0.5 per cent.

A thin layer of the material equivalent to about 0.5 gm. for an area of 70 sq. in. placed between two glass plates and viewed by transmitted light, should not be more neppy than the standard sample.

GAUZE

The committee had been informed that more than 90 different specifications existed. It was obviously impracticable to suggest one standard quality and they decided therefore to recommend five qualities of gauze. It had been found that great discrepancy existed between the samples submitted by various hospitals so that it was necessary to approve for standardisation the highest and lowest "counts" of gauze used by hospitals (the lowest incidentally being the most common). The remaining qualities include the B.P.C. specification and two others, thus giving opportunity to every hospital to specify from the five selected a quality very nearly approximating whatever gauze they may be using at the present time.

It should be pointed out that the lowest quality gauze is primarily intended as a wrapping and not for surgical use.

The following are the specifications :—

(1) Gauze, absorbent, white, unmedicated. The gauze to contain 22 threads per in. of warp and 18 threads per in. of weft, and to weigh not less than 315 grn. per sq. yd.

(2) Gauze, absorbent, white, unmedicated. B.P.C. quality.

(3) Gauze, absorbent, white, unmedicated. The gauze to contain 19 threads per in. of warp and 12 threads per in. of weft, and to weigh not less than 173 grn. per sq. yd.

(4) Gauze, absorbent, white, unmedicated. The gauze to contain 19 threads per in. of warp and 10 threads per in. of weft, and to weigh not less than 162 grn. per sq. yd.

(5) Gauze, absorbent, white, unmedicated. The gauze to contain 8 threads per in. of weft

FIRST LIST OF SPECIFICATIONS OF THE STANDARDISATION COMMITTEE and 12 threads per in. of warp, and to weigh not less than 130 grn. per sq. yd.

LINEN AND COTTON SHEETS

At the moment the committee are only in a position to specify for linen sheeting—of which they have selected two qualities—the one, slightly coarser, for general use and the other for special purposes and for pillow cases. Samples of the cotton sheeting provisionally selected, upon which considerable tests had been made were unfortunately burnt before the final examination had been concluded, and it will therefore be some weeks before the tests on the new samples are completed.

The linen specifications are as follows :—

Linen, half-bleached (for general purposes)

MEDICINE BOTTLES

The following types of bottles for medicinal preparations for individual patients are recommended :—

Flat, for internal use only; hexagonal, fluted on three sides, for poisons only.

It is not necessary to specify the colour of the bottles.

It is also considered unnecessary to specify the shape of large bottles containing internal medicine for general ward use.

SOAPS

The following general remarks apply :—

If the soap is required for use in a very hot or boiling solution, then it should be a high titre soap—the titre to be not less than 38° C.

For general purpose soap, the titre should be from 35° to 38° C.

Low titre (oil) soaps should possess a titre not exceeding 25° C. These are suitable for washing woollens and silks and for use in cold or lukewarm solutions.

Particulars regarding titre should be embodied in the specification of any particular soap.

With the above information suitably incorporated, the following is a specification for a bar soap (mottled, curd, primrose, etc.) :—

The soap shall be manufactured from high-grade fats and/or oils and shall conform to the following particulars: Pure dry soap (equivalent to not less than 65 per cent. insoluble fatty acids), not less than 70 per cent.; free caustic alkali, not exceeding 0.1 per cent. as Na₂O; sodium carbonate, not exceeding 0.4 per cent. as Na₂O; sodium chloride and other inorganic impurity, not exceeding 0.5 per cent.; total impurities, not exceeding 0.75 per cent. Resin soap shall be absent from all soaps except primrose variety, in which it shall not exceed 20 per cent. of the total dry soap content. The fatty acids should be free from objectionable odour.

Flake or Powdered Soap

The soap shall be manufactured from high-grade fats and/or oils and shall conform to the following particulars :—

Pure dry soap (equivalent to not less than 83.5 per cent. insoluble fatty acids), not less than 90 per cent.; free caustic alkali, not exceeding 0.1 per cent. as Na₂O; sodium carbonate, not exceeding 0.4 per cent. as Na₂O; sodium chloride and other inorganic impurity, not exceeding 0.5 per cent.; total impurities, not exceeding 1.0 per cent.; resin soap, nil. The fatty acids should be free from objectionable odour.

WATERPROOF RUBBER SHEETING

A specification for waterproof rubber sheeting upon which probably more research and more exhaustive tests have been made than upon any other article considered by the committee is at present being withheld from publication until comments have been received from a number of manufacturers.

NOTE.—Samples of all the articles specified above (with the exception of soap) are exhibited in the Medical Section of the Building Centre, 158 New Bond Street, London, W.1.

AGREEMENTS FOR PAYMENT OF COSTS OF TREATMENT

Kindly prepared for the Bureau by W. E. C. BAYNES, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

1. Whenever it is intended to charge a patient for his treatment in hospital, whether in a private or public ward, it is advisable, in order to avoid subsequent disputes, to have a definite agreement in writing for the payment of the costs of his treatment, signed either by the patient himself or by some other person on his behalf.

2. Legally speaking, an agreement to pay the costs of one's own treatment, or to pay the costs of a third person where that person is not himself liable, need not be in writing, a mere verbal agreement being sufficient; it is only when the agreement is a guarantee (i.e. when the patient is liable for the costs as well as the guarantor) that the agreement must be in writing in order to be enforceable. In practice, however, there is often a difficulty about proving a verbal agreement, and it is therefore best to have every agreement for the payment of costs in writing.

3. The terms of the agreement should be as precise as possible with regard to the amount of costs agreed to be paid. While it is possible to refer merely to "the usual costs," it is much better to have a printed scale of fees or printed regulations to refer to.

4. When the agreement does refer to a scale of fees or to regulations, it is advisable that these should be printed on the back of the agreement form, or else that a copy of them should be given to the signatory at the time of his signing the agreement.

5. Unless an agreement or guarantee is expressed to last for a definite time, it must be renewed every time a patient is re-admitted, even though the re-admission is only for the continuance of treatment which has been temporarily discontinued.

* Legally speaking, this is not an agreement, but merely an offer to pay for treatment in the event of the applicant being admitted to hospital, and therefore requires no stamp; but if the agreement is completed by the subsequent admission of the applicant to hospital, then this offer can be used by the hospital as evidence to show on what terms he was admitted.

6. No particular form of agreement is necessary. The forms below are given as examples, but each hospital can make up its own forms to meet its own requirements.

7. Whatever form of agreement or guarantee is used, it must be stamped with a 6d. stamp—unless, at the time when it is made, the total cost of the treatment is not to be, or is not expected to be, more than £5, in which case no stamp is required.

8. Stamp duty may, however, be avoided by using a mere application form,* as Form IV, instead of an agreement.

Extracts from the replies from some of the smaller or cottage hospitals where the hospital is in receipt of income from a contributory scheme are given below.

Hpl.	Conditions under which members of Honorary Medical Staffs give their services in Cottage Hospitals where the hospital is in receipt of income from Contributory Schemes.
1	Any fees due to medical practitioners for services rendered to patients in the hospital are paid by the patients themselves. The four doctors on the staff of the hospital are also panel doctors. The hospital receives approximately £700 per annum from an outside contributory scheme.
2	Doctors give their services free where patients pay the hospital 2s. 6d. per day or less. In other cases, fees are a matter of arrangement between doctors and patients. The hospital receives income from the Hospital Saving Association and Hospital Saturday Fund, and the medical staff receive 20 per cent. of these receipts, in respect of In-patient treatment.

PAYMENTS TO MEDICAL STAFFS

Hpl.	Conditions under which members of Honorary Medical Staffs give their services in Cottage Hospitals where the hospital is in receipt of income from Contributory Schemes.
3	There has been some suggestion that the honorary medical staff should receive remuneration from those in respect of whom the hospital receives £1 per week or more. The hospital committee takes the view that the doctors are privileged by being on the honorary staff, and should not, therefore, receive payment.
4	The hospital receives about £500 per annum from an outside fund. Members of the scheme are entitled to free maintenance and medical attendance. Medical staff give their services free.
5	The honorary medical staff of the hospital (13) are (with one exception) all panel doctors, and all on the committee of the hospital. The hospital receives about £2,300 per annum from its contributory scheme. No payment is made out of this sum to those on the medical staff (for medical treatment), but payment is made to two local surgeons and visiting specialists for major operations. The local practitioners generally have in the past made no charge to contributory scheme patients, but have reserved the right to do so to any patient in the ordinary wards. Recently they have exercised this right.
6	The payment made by the contributory scheme to the hospital amounts at the present time to £1 1s. per week towards a cost of £3 14s. 2d. The medical staff fund is credited with 20 per cent. of the gross receipts.
7	All the doctors on the staff of this hospital are also panel doctors, but only two of them are appointed to the Board of Governors. 25 per cent. of the net proceeds of the contributory scheme are paid to a medical staff fund. Out of this fund, fees are paid to visiting specialists from neighbouring towns for major operations, etc.
8	All members of medical staff are panel doctors, and all are on the committee of management of the hospital. The contributory scheme only provides for the maintenance of its members and dependents, doctors' fees being a matter of arrangement.
9	A contributory scheme handled by an outside organisation, which provides for free hospital maintenance for contributors and their dependents. 70 per cent. of the gross receipts is paid to the hospital for maintenance charges, and 20 per cent. to the medical staff who guarantee free treatment. Panel and non-panel patients are not distinguished. Non-contributors pay for maintenance according to their means, and the medical staff are allowed to charge them fees.
10	The local contributory scheme provides for free maintenance and treatment. The honorary medical staff give their services entirely free to any cases in the general ward.
11	The scheme run by the hospital raises sufficient to cover full cost of maintenance of its members. In addition, 15 per cent. of this cost is credited to a medical staff fund, which is at the disposal of the medical staff. The income limit for membership of the contributory scheme is £250 per annum, and the medical staff do not charge fees for any patients, whether contributors or not, with an income less than this sum. It has been the custom for doctors to charge patients in the general wards of cottage hospitals, and on the adoption of the contributory schemes this question of payment to recompense them for the loss of fees comes up for settlement. The Secretary writes: "I think that some recompense should be made, as the appointment to the staff of a cottage hospital does not carry quite the same prestige and kudos as a similar appointment to the staff of a general hospital."
12	The contributory scheme pays the hospital 6s. per day, and out of this sum the hospital allows the doctor 16s. per week. No fees are charged by the doctors to patients in the general wards, but the medical staff have intimated that they cannot continue to serve under the present system. The present system must therefore be considered as in the melting-pot.
13	The medical staff have two representatives on the general committee, and one representative on the executive. The medical staff receive 20 per cent. of all sums paid in respect of general ward patients, whether from the contributory scheme or otherwise, up to a total of £1,000. 17 per cent. of the next £500 and 15 per cent. of any sum over £1,500. The medical staff are allowed to charge fees to patients in the general wards who pay full hospital costs, but only with the consent of the executive committee. The contributory scheme provides seven-eighths of the total cost of treating these members.

* The arrangement of the classification employed is different in Groups 1 and 2 from that in Groups 3 and 4 owing to the fact that the allocation of beds at some hospitals is more detailed than at others, e.g. in Groups 3 and 4 in some cases beds for children are not allocated for special forms of treatment; or the beds for Paying Patients are not allocated as between male, female and children; or beds for accident and orthopædic cases are grouped together.

* The arrangement of the classification employed is different in Groups 1 and 2 from that in Groups 3 and 4 owing to the fact that the allocation of beds at some hospitals is more detailed than at others, e.g. in Groups 3 and 4 in some cases beds for children are not allocated for special forms of treatment; or the beds for Paying Patients are not allocated as between male, female and children; or beds for accident and orthopaedic cases are grouped together.

It should be noted that the percentages shown above are based on the figures of 47 hospitals situated throughout the length and breadth of the country, and that the percentages of individual hospitals vary widely from the average. In consequence, the percentages should not be taken as a guide to what is desirable in any individual institution.

For instance, in the case of towns where separate special hospitals exist, e.g. Children's Hospitals, Eye Hospitals, Maternity Hospitals, etc., the General Hospital is less likely to make provision for such special treatment than if there were no such hospitals.

The summary is based upon an enquiry sent to every Voluntary Hospital and the number of examples given (25) supports the view of the Minister hereinafter quoted, that there is considerable scope for Authorities to make fuller use of their powers.

The Minister of Health, in the 19th Annual Report of the Ministry of Health, 1937-38, summarises the powers of Local Authorities to give financial assistance to Voluntary Hospitals as follows:—

"It may be of convenience to summarise shortly the extent of the powers, which are now contained in Section 181 of the Public Health Act, 1936, and Sub-section (2) of Section 271 of that Act.

"In the first place, Sub-section (3) of Section

181 provides Local Authorities with a direct power, without entering into any agreement for the reception of patients, to give reasonable subscriptions or donations to voluntary hospitals or institutions, subject to the limit that the expenses so incurred shall not in any year exceed an amount equal to the product of a penny and a third rate, or such higher rate poundage as the Minister may in any special case from time to time approve.

"Secondly, Section 271 enables a Local Authority to enter into an agreement with the authorities of a voluntary hospital for the use, upon such terms as may be agreed, of any suitable buildings, premises, accommodation, equipment or vehicles provided by the hospital. Thus an authority could make an agreement for the use of a complete block or wing of a

Date of Agreement.	Capital provided by the Authority.	Method of Repayment (if any).	Maintenance Paid.
1938	£4,489 from the West Riding County Council, £1,120 from the Harrogate Borough Council.	—	Each authority agrees to pay £3 3s. per week for each of the beds reserved for its use and for any additional beds occupied by their patients.
August 1930	£2,600 per annum for 30 years (£1 per bed per week).	—	£1 per patient per week with a minimum of £21 per week (subject to periodical review).
1901 and 1926	—	—	25s. per patient per week.
1923	£206 per annum for 20 years (representing one-half the cost plus interest).	—	£2 5s. per patient per week and 50% of any annual deficit on the ward
—	£10,000.	—	—
—	£900.	—	—
1937	£13,600.	Half to be repaid at 3½% over 30 years.	£3 3s. per patient per week subject to revision every 3 years.
1935	£2,500.	—	£3 7s. 6d. per patient per week.
—	6s. per week per bed for 21 years included in payment for maintenance.	—	£3 1s. per patient per week (including 6s per. week for repayment of capital).
1936	£12,500. Secured by a mortgage on the whole building.	Repayable in event of either side wishing to terminate the Corporation's use of the ward.	£3 3s. per patient per week hospital, or for the use of some special equipment such as X-ray apparatus, or for the use of an ambulance. Moreover, for such a purpose, a Local Authority could make a capital contribution to enable the buildings, etc., to be provided, and could, with the Minister's consent, raise a loan for the purpose.
1936	£4,000 (equal shares paid by County and Borough Councils).	—	£3 13s. 6d. per week per bed whether occupied or not (subject to revision every 3 years).

"Thirdly, under the general power to provide hospital accommodation for persons who are sick, given in Sub-sections (1) and (2) of Section 181, Local Authorities can make arrangements with a voluntary hospital for the reception of patients. Accommodation could be built by the hospital, for example, with the aid of a capital contribution, in respect of which the Local Authority could, if they desire, raise a loan. Authorities could also make a payment in respect of the maintenance of persons treated in accommodation provided by the voluntary hospitals.

"Finally, in respect of several of their other public health services, for example, the maternity and child welfare, tuberculosis, and venereal diseases services, Local Authorities can make similar arrangements for the use of accommodation provided by voluntary hospitals.

"Apart from contributions made under Sub-section 3 of Section 181, Local Authorities' arrangements have usually been of the third kind. One of the County Councils in the home counties, for instance, has entered into agreements with the principal voluntary hospitals in the county under which, in return for substantial annual contributions, accommodation up to a maximum number of beds is reserved for county patients, and the greater proportion of acute cases are dealt with at these hospitals. Recently a large County Council and a Welfare Council have combined to finance the building of a maternity block at a voluntary hospital situated in the area of the Welfare Council, in return for the use of beds. In this category, also, fall the arrangements fairly commonly made with voluntary hospitals for the performance of tonsil and adenoid operations and similar cases.

“Apart from cases in which loan sanction is involved, the Ministry has no detailed knowledge of the arrangements made, but it seems clear that there is considerable scope for Authorities to make fuller use of their powers in this respect. At the same time, it is to be borne in mind that all these powers are of an optional character, and it would not be reasonable to expect that they should be exercised in respect of provision of a kind which Local Authorities are already in a position to make for themselves in their own hospitals and other institutions. The aim should be the utilisation of the existing resources, and the provision of new accommodation and facilities both by Local Authorities and by voluntary hospitals in such a way as to cover together the whole range of needs to be met.”

In addition to the instances given in the Summary, Local Authorities in various parts of the country have made donations towards the capital expenditure involved in the erection of new buildings. The following are examples :—

WAGES DURING SICKNESS.

Kindly prepared for the Bureau by W. E. C. BAYNES, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

THIS Note has been prepared by way of reply to a number of inquiries with regard to the recent decision of the Court of Appeal as to the right of employees to be paid their full wages in addition to sickness benefit.

National Health Insurance.

It is well established that, in the absence of any agreement to the contrary, an employee who falls sick is entitled to be paid his wages until his employment has been terminated by the proper notice in the usual way, and the fact that he may also be receiving payments under the National Health Insurance scheme does not affect this right.

Workmen's Compensation.

The law with regard to payments under the Workmen's Compensation Acts, however, is different. An employee who has been injured and who has actually claimed and been paid compensation in accordance with the provisions of those Acts is not entitled to any additional payment by way of wages. It would seem, however, that, if an employee does not claim compensation, and in any case until he has done so, he is entitled to his full wages until his employment has been terminated by the usual notice.

Engagement of New Staff.

As there is nothing to prevent hospitals from making such terms as they choose with employees at the time of their engagement, it is suggested that, whenever a new employee is engaged, it should be made quite clear at the time of his engagement what the rule is as to the payment of wages during sickness. As it is always difficult to prove the exact terms of a verbal agreement, it is strongly recommended that all new employees (including domestic servants) be required to sign a note of the terms on which they are engaged.

Existing Staff.

As regards the existing staff in hospitals, one of two courses may be followed :

(a) All members of the staff who come within the scope of the National Health Insurance scheme can be given notice terminating their present contracts of service and then re-engaged on new terms including whatever condition is desired as to the payment of wages during sickness, or

(b) These members of the staff may be invited to agree to a variation of their present contracts. In this case, as the staff are being asked to give up their present right to be paid full wages till the termination of their contracts by notice, they must be given some quid pro quo ; otherwise the variation of the contracts would not be binding on them ; e.g., if an employee who is engaged by the week falls sick he can be dismissed at one week's notice, and so would only be entitled to one week's full wages (in addition to his sick benefit). If, therefore, it was agreed that, instead of this, the hospital would make up his sick benefit to full wages for (say) 4 weeks, this would be more advantageous to him and would constitute a quid pro quo.

If the second course suggested above is adopted, the simplest method would be to type out the new regulation required at the head of several sheets of paper, followed by :

" We the undersigned hereby agree to accept the above arrangement as a condition of our contracts of service with the Hospital."

and invite all the employees concerned to append their signatures.

Clause regulating the position.

It is not possible to draft a clause that will meet the needs of every hospital. The appropriate form can only be settled by each hospital for itself after carefully considering what its present rules and practice are on this matter, and also what procedure it wishes to follow in the future. In particular the case of probationers may require special consideration as they are often engaged for two years.

The following form, which is already in use at one hospital, may be suitable for adoption as it stands by many hospitals, and in any case it should prove useful as an example of the sort of clause that is required.

" In case of sickness or accident the wages payable to an employee by the Hospital shall be reduced by the amount of sickness benefit received by him under the National Health Insurance Act or the amount of compensation received under the Workmen's Compensation Act. After a period of three months' incapacity to work the employment shall be taken to have been duly terminated unless the Board of Management otherwise directs."

Adjustments to figures.

An attempt has been made to present the figures of all hospitals upon the basis of the Revised Uniform System of Hospital Accounts. Slight divergences from the figures published in the Annual Reports of a few hospitals will consequently be found.

The figures in the Tables giving particulars of groups of hospitals include the returns made by a few hospitals covering a period longer than 12 months. This is generally due to some such cause as the changing of the date of the termination of the official year.

Definition of London area.

For the purposes of the Statistical Tables and the Directory of Voluntary Hospitals, London is regarded as the area covered by King Edward's Hospital Fund for London, viz., 11 miles from St. Paul's Cathedral. This area includes portions of the counties of Essex, Hertfordshire, Kent, Middlesex and Surrey in addition to the whole of the County of London. Similarly, all hospitals under the control of the London County Council are grouped together, whether they are situated in the County of London or not.

“Available” beds of London hospitals.

The figures of “available” beds of the London hospitals are the average daily bed complement during the year after deducting beds temporarily closed for Rebuilding, Extensions, Repairs, or other causes.

Thanks.

The Editors desire to express their thanks to King Edward's Hospital Fund for London for the leave, so kindly granted, to use the figures in its Statistical Report on the London hospitals for the purpose of compiling the Tables which appear in the Year-Book ; to all those Chairmen and Officers of the Voluntary Hospitals who so kindly supply the information upon which the statistics are compiled, and to the Public Authorities who also most kindly give particulars concerning the institutions for which they are responsible.

(a) In the London County Council hospitals, there is a "group" scheme for consultant and specialist services. The general hospitals are divided into seven groups and the services of 10 dermatologists, 11 ear, nose and throat specialists, 10 obstetricians and gynaecologists, 12 ophthalmologists, 10 orthopaedists, 12 paediatrists, 19 physicians, 11 radiologists, 20 surgeons and 8 urologists are regularly utilised. There are panels comprising 28 anaesthetists and 7 neurologists, and these specialists are called in when required. There are also a number of part-time consultants and specialists employed in special units and at special hospitals. In addition, 2 full-time radiologists are employed at groups of general hospitals and 4 obstetricians and gynaecologists working approximately half-time for the Council are attached to selected general hospitals. Tuberculosis officers of the metropolitan boroughs are honorary consultants for tuberculosis in the general hospitals. Dental facilities are available at all the Council's hospitals.

HOME AMBULANCE SERVICE

Telephone : Sloane 7136 & 9828.

Headquarters : The Joint Council of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society, 12, Grosvenor Crescent, London, S.W. 1.

THE Home Ambulance Service of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society was set up in 1919 with the intention of providing better means of transport for the sick and injured throughout the country.

The end of the War afforded an opportunity for meeting a want that had become seriously urgent.

At the time the Armistice was signed, a large number of the ambulances of the Order and Society was still effective. Many had been shattered by enemy gun-fire. There was, however, a considerable number that could be made available for a further period of service.

Happily it was at this moment that the two organisations decided that the need for united efforts had not ceased with the War. It was arranged that for certain purposes they should continue to work together in promoting the health of the community, and one of the first steps they undertook in that direction was the organisation of a National Ambulance Service for England, Ireland and Wales.

The Committee has every reason to believe that the Home Ambulance Service has become an important link in the chain of organisations for the promotion of the health of the community, and that the co-operation of the Order of St. John and the British Red Cross Society in its establishment has been justified by the result.

HOSPITAL SERVICE AND PRIVATE HIRE.

Arrangements may be made by telephone or letter for the conveyance of patients from London to any part of the country.

A male attendant always accompanies the driver of the ambulance.

A charge of 10s. is made for the conveyance of a patient from any address within the administrative County of London to any Hospital in the same area.

By arrangement with Hospital Almoners a service is maintained for the transfer of patients from Hospitals to Convalescent Homes.

A female attendant accompanies all convalescent cases and if sufficient notice is given a similar arrangement may be made for the Private Hire Service.

LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL AMBULANCE SERVICE.

HEADQUARTERS : THE COUNTY HALL, S.E. 1. Telephone No. : Waterloo 3311.

I. Ambulances Supplied without Payment.

THE Council provides, within the Administrative County of London, ambulances, free of cost, for the conveyance to :—

A. Hospitals and/or private residences of :—

Persons meeting with accidents or suffering from sudden illnesses in the streets, public places, places of employment, etc.

B. Hospitals :—

(i) Persons meeting with accidents in their homes ;

(ii) Persons suffering from illnesses in their homes if a medical practitioner certifies that the case is one of life or death, and that arrangements have been made for the reception of the patient in a hospital ;

(iii) Parturient women, if the case is one of urgency, whether from the home, place of business, or elsewhere, on the application of a qualified medical practitioner or certified midwife, provided that either a doctor or midwife accompanies the case ; and

(iv) Non-urgent cases of parturition.

In such cases admission to a maternity bed must have previously been arranged and a card (issued by the Council to hospitals and municipal maternity homes) for such admission obtained. This card must be handed to the ambulance attendant at the time of removal.

In these cases a nurse or a female friend must accompany the patient. The patient may also be accompanied by her husband.

(Note.—The Corporation of the City of London maintains its own ambulance service for dealing with cases of accident and illness occurring in the streets within the City area.)

How to obtain an ambulance for :—

Cases coming under classes A and B (i).

No telephone number is required ; dial " 999 " and ask the operator for " AMBULANCE."

Cases coming under classes B (ii), (iii) and (iv).

Ask the telephone operator (or dial) for one of the headquarters telephone numbers, namely : WATERloo 6000, NEW Cross 2645, CENTral 6301, or REGent 4000.

When communication has been effected, particulars should be clearly given in this order : Place of accident or illness, name of the caller.

C. The Council's hospitals for infectious cases.

D. The Council's hospitals and institutions for non-infectious cases.

In cases coming under class D no charge is made at the time of removal, but there is a liability to assessment of a charge based on the patient's ability to pay.

II. Ambulances Supplied on Payment.

E. Ambulances and ambulance omnibuses are also provided by the Council, when not required for the purposes stated above, on payment of charges, as laid down from time to time by the Council, for the conveyance of infectious and non-infectious cases between private houses, hospitals (other than to the Council's hospitals, etc., under the provisions of Section I) nursing homes and for examinations, consultations and treatment by specialists or at special establishments.

The conveyance of private persons between addresses both of which are outside the administrative county of London cannot be undertaken, unless in circumstances of exceptional urgency.

Arrangements for the reception of an infectious case must be made by or on behalf of the patient before application for an ambulance is sent to the Council.

How to obtain an ambulance for :—

Cases coming under classes C, D and E :—

Application should be made by telephone to Headquarters Telephone No. WATERloo 3311, when full information and the charge for any proposed removal may be obtained at any hour of the day or night, including Sundays and public holidays.

SCHEDULES OF REQUIREMENTS IN THE PLANNING OF HOSPITALS.

PREPARED BY THE BUILDING CENTRE HOSPITALS COMMITTEE.

FOREWORD.

For some long time there has been an increasing demand by both Hospital Authorities and Architects for some sort of concise information as to the requirements of Hospitals when giving instructions to Architects, and the Hospitals Committee of the Building Centre,* which was formed at the beginning of 1938, undertook the work.

It was felt that first of all a comprehensive Schedule of total possible requirements should be produced, and that later on Hospital Departments should be taken one by one in greater detail, beginning with the Out-patient Department. The first two Schedules, (1) General Schedule, (2) Schedule for Out-patient and Casualty Departments, are reproduced below by courtesy of the Committee.

It should be understood that these Schedules are designed in a form which can be filled in by any Hospital Authority that desires to give information to Architects and others whom it may engage to carry out its requirements. It is not suggested that any such Authority would necessarily need all the departments named. The headings are inserted with a view to drawing the attention of those concerned to special departments which may be desirable. For ease of reading and convenience of reference, departments, etc., are listed alphabetically.

SCHEDULE 1.

TRAINING SCHOOLS FOR NURSES.

I. CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH HOSPITALS ARE APPROVED AS TRAINING SCHOOLS.

II. SCHEMES UNDER WHICH NURSES MAY BE TRAINED FOR ADMISSION TO THE STATE REGISTER.

CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH HOSPITALS ARE APPROVED AS TRAINING SCHOOLS.

BEFORE any hospital or group of hospitals can be approved the authorities of such hospitals are required to submit to the General Nursing Council particulars as to—

- (a) training material available;
- (b) the variety of experience assured to each probationer;
- (c) in the case of grouped hospitals information as to the hospital in which each variety of experience is to be obtained, and
- (d) the educational facilities offered and the systematic arrangements made whereby the attendance of each probationer at a series of lectures on the prescribed subjects is assured.

(1) For Training in General Nursing.

(a) As a Complete Training School.

The hospital must satisfy the Council that it provides experience in the four main services—medical, surgical, gynæcological, and children's diseases, and also an adequate staff and equipment for teaching in accordance with the prescribed Syllabus.

That it has at least one Resident Medical Officer.

That the period of training is not less than three years.

In a hospital where the work is mainly surgical approximately one-third of the beds should be devoted to medical work.

In a hospital where the work is mainly medical, approximately one-third of the beds should be devoted to surgical work.

(b) Associated Hospitals.

- (i) There are other hospitals which are sufficiently large but from deficiency of clinical material in some branch cannot be approved as Complete Training Schools. Such hospitals will be required to associate themselves with another hospital or hospitals in order to supply for their nurses that part of the training in which they are deficient.

The hospitals applying for approval under this category must each have a Resident Medical Officer.

The period of training must extend over three years and six months, of which not less than six months must be spent in the hospital which is supplying the deficiency of clinical material.

The Council is prepared to consider any scheme for carrying out such an arrangement, and it will be for the hospitals who propose to associate themselves to satisfy the Council that the arrangements will be adequate to afford a complete training.

- (ii) The Council is prepared to consider schemes whereby a general hospital for men only, one for women only, and one for children only, may respectively work together to furnish the necessary training according to the prescribed Syllabus. The period of training may be divided amongst the three hospitals as may be convenient, provided that adequate training in the four main services is assured, and that the subjects of the Preliminary Examination (see Preface to Syllabus of Subjects for Examination) are taught in the first hospital to which the nurse goes for training, so far as they can be taught in that hospital. The training in this case extends over four years if the Council so decide.

Such hospitals will be entitled "Associated Hospitals."

(c) Affiliated Groups of General Hospitals.

There are many hospitals which are not sufficiently large to provide adequate clinical material, teaching staff, and equipment for complete training, but these may be approved in affiliation with a hospital of the kind dealt with in Regulation (1) (a) above.

The period of training must extend over four years, of which the first two years must be spent in the smaller hospital in preparation for the Preliminary Examination. The Probationers should be transferred to the larger hospital for the final two years, after passing the Preliminary Examination.

The Council is prepared to consider any scheme for carrying out such an arrangement, and it will be for the hospitals who propose to affiliate themselves to satisfy the Council that the requirements for a four years' training are fulfilled by the scheme proposed.

Such hospitals will be entitled "Affiliated Hospitals."

(d) Affiliated Groups of Special and General Hospitals.

Nurses trained for two years in approved Special Hospitals as mentioned below will be eligible for the Final Examination for the General Part of the Register when they have undergone a subsequent two years' training in a General Hospital as defined in (1) (a).

The two years' training in the Special Hospital must include the subjects of the Preliminary Examination. This examination must be taken from the Special Hospital.

Special Hospitals to which the above rule applies.

Fever, Gynæcological, Ophthalmic, Ear and Nose, Cancer, Incurable, Orthopædic, Tuberculosis, Urinary Diseases, Venereal Diseases, Nervous Diseases, Children's Diseases, and (provided that the applicant has had training in bedside nursing for not less than six months) Mental Diseases.

In exceptional cases, on the recommendation of the Education and Examination Committee, and after detailed consideration of each case, the Council may permit nurses to proceed from a Special to a General hospital forthwith after passing the Preliminary Examination, or under special conditions (after completing one year's training) and after remaining for the two ensuing years at the said General Hospital to return to the said Special Hospital for the completion of the fourth year of training, but that no such permission be granted unless the authorities of the Special Hospital satisfy the Council:—

- (a) that the training of such nurses will be adequately continued; and
- (b) that the nursing of their patients presents difficulties which form a claim for special consideration.

Such hospitals will be entitled "Affiliated Hospitals."

(2) For Training in Male Nursing.

The hospital must satisfy the Council that it furnishes adequate material for the training of Male Nurses and provides the requisite staff and equipment for teaching in accordance with the prescribed Syllabus.

The period of training must be not less than three years in a Complete Training School for Male Nurses;

or

four years in an Affiliated Training School for Male Nurses;

or three and a half years in an Associated Training School for Male Nurses.

(3) For Training in Mental Nursing, and for Nurses for Mental Defectives.

(a) As a Complete Training School.

The hospital must satisfy the Council that it furnishes adequate material for the training of Mental Nurses, and provides the requisite staff and equipment for teaching in accordance with the prescribed Syllabus.

The period of training must be not less than three years, including not less than six months bedside nursing as detailed in Section IV, Part I, of the Syllabus of Subjects for Examination, before the candidate enters for the Preliminary Examination.

(b) As an Affiliated Training School.

The Council is prepared to consider a scheme by which a Mental Hospital which has not sufficient material to afford a complete training may affiliate itself to a Complete Training School for Mental Nurses.

The period of training under this category must extend over four years, of which the first two years must be spent in the smaller hospital in preparation for the Preliminary Examination. The Probationers should be transferred to the larger hospital for the final two years, after passing the Preliminary Examination.

Note.—Those Institutions which cannot provide sufficient bedside nursing for their staff can do so by arrangement or by affiliation with a General Hospital, subject to the approval of the Council.

(4) For Training in Sick Children's Nursing.

(a) As a Complete Training School.

The hospital must satisfy the Council that it furnishes adequate material for the training of Sick Children's Nurses, and provides the requisite staff and equipment for teaching in accordance with the prescribed Syllabus. The period of training must be not less than three years.

There should be at least one Resident Medical Officer.

(b) As an Affiliated Training School.

The Council is prepared to consider a scheme by which a Sick Children's Hospital which has not sufficient material to afford a complete training may affiliate itself to a Complete Training School for Sick Children's Nurses.

The period of training under this category must extend over four years, of which the first two years must be spent in the smaller hospital in preparation for the Preliminary Examination. The Probationers should be transferred to the larger hospital for the final two years, after passing the Preliminary Examination.

(c) The Council is also prepared to consider a scheme by which an Infant's Hospital may affiliate itself to a Complete Training School for Sick Children's Nurses.

The period of training under this category must extend over four years, of which the first two years must be spent in the Infants' Hospital in preparation for the Preliminary Examination. The probationers should be transferred to the Sick Children's Hospital for the final two years, after passing the Preliminary Examination.

(5) For Training in Fever Nursing.

(a) As a Complete Training School.

The hospital must satisfy the Council that it furnishes adequate material for the training of Fever Nurses, and provides the requisite staff and equipment for teaching in accordance with the prescribed Syllabus.

The period of training must be not less than two years.

(b) As an Affiliated Training School.

The Council is prepared to consider a scheme by which a Fever Hospital which has not sufficient material to afford a complete training may affiliate itself to a Complete Training School for Fever Nurses.

The period of training under this category must be not less than two years and six months, of which not less than one year must be spent at the Complete Training School for Fever Nurses.

The Preliminary Examination must be passed before the nurse enters the Complete Training School for Fever Nurses.

Notes.—(1) The Council is prepared to consider Schemes for Affiliated or Associated training not mentioned in the foregoing, provided that such schemes afford comprehensive training and include not less than two years in a complete General Training School.

(2) The Council is prepared in certain cases to consider applications, on behalf of individual nurses, for training by special affiliation between any two approved Hospitals, provided that one at least is approved as a complete General Training School.

(3) The General Nursing Council considers that it would be greatly in the interests of the training of nurses if preliminary training schools could be instituted in various centres throughout England and Wales.

(4) In every case the Institution where the training takes place must be "either an Institution approved by the Council in that behalf, or in the service of the Admiralty, the Army Council, or the Air Council." (Nurses' Registration Act 1919, 3(2) (b).)

FAMOUS MEN PLEAD HUMANITY'S CAUSE

The Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, P.C., M.C.

MR. ANTHONY EDEN

writes:

"Medical science and skill are employing every weapon in their power to combat this dread disease. But it is to us they turn for the necessary funds to help relieve the terrible sufferings of thousands of human beings. Our contributions will further research which will one day doubtless find a cure for cancer. Every penny we can spare brings that day nearer."

LONDON, S.W.3

WHY should Q.C.H. remain mortgaged?

UNTIL 1930 no fully organised attempt had been made elsewhere to combat childbed fever, the chief single cause of maternal mortality. The special and unique centre then built has established itself as a national asset in this fight.

But to provide the clamorous demand for far greater accommodation and modern equipment, complete rebuilding could no longer be postponed. The hospital, therefore, undertook a building mortgage of £150,000.

This debt is incurred for you and your children. Will you not help quickly? "Bis dat qui cito dat."

IMPERIAL CANCER RESEARCH FUND

Patron—His Most Gracious Majesty the King.

President—The Rt. Hon. Viscount Halifax, K.G., P.C.

FOUNDED in 1902, under the direction of the Royal College of Physicians of London and the Royal College of Surgeons of England as a centre for research and information on Cancer, the Imperial Cancer Research Fund is working unceasingly on the systematic investigation of the disease in man and animals. The work of this Fund and of other great centres of research has increased our knowledge of the origin and nature of Cancer and has so altered our outlook that the disease is now curable in increasing numbers. But our present accommodation has become too limited and we have recently built new modern laboratories to extend the scope of our investigations. The income from investments and the Endowment Fund is insufficient to cover the total annual expenditure, and help is urgently needed to meet the heavy additional cost of expansion.

Donations and Subscriptions may be sent to the Honorary Treasurer, Sir Holburt Waring, Bt., c/o Royal College of Surgeons of England, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, W.C.2, or may be paid to the Westminster Bank, Ltd., Marylebone Branch, 1 Stratford Place, London, W., A/c Imperial Cancer Research Fund.

FORM OF BEQUEST

I hereby bequeath the sum of £ to the Treasurer, Sir Holburt Waring, Bt., of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund under the direction of the Royal College of Physicians of London and the Royal College of Surgeons of England, c/o Royal College of Surgeons of England, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, W.C.2, for the purpose of Scientific Research, and I direct that his receipt shall be a good discharge for such legacy.

This Hostel was founded in 1891. Its object is to provide a Home, where men and women in the last stages of illness, who, having seen better days, shrink from claiming the shelter of the County Hospital or Workhouse Infirmary and can appreciate very fully the refinement and comfort which we are able to give them, may end their days in peace carefully and tenderly nursed and surrounded by everything that can cheer them and alleviate their sufferings.

The Home is almost entirely dependent upon charity ; it is absolutely free to all without distinction of creed or country.

Application for admission to be made to the Sister Superior, 29 North Side, Clapham Common, S.W. 4.

Cheques to be crossed "Messrs. HOARE, 37 Fleet Street, E.C.4," and made payable to "The Hostel of GOD."

The Welfare of 5,000,000 CHILDREN has been affected to their life-long advantage by the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The Society has agencies in all parts of England, Wales and Ireland through which it exerts a vast influence in securing proper treatment for children. Last year, the N.S.P.C.C. protected 120,995 little ones—many mere babies—from all kinds of danger, moral and physical.

Much of the work is educational. Hundreds of thousands of pamphlets are distributed respecting the better upbringing of children, and the Society is continuously engaged in organising public meetings throughout the country. Your practical help is needed.

THE TOMB OF THE FOUNDER

"Dare quam accipere"

"Dare quam accipere," the motto of Guy's Hospital, sums up a policy of service to humanity which has been pursued for more than two centuries. Ceaselessly by day and by night—whatever the calls of the sick and suffering—the work of the Hospital has gone on in giving treatment for restoration of health and happiness.

That the world owes a debt of gratitude to this great national Hospital for the service it has given is beyond question. Four times only in two hundred years have the Governors appealed to the public for financial help. This time the appeal is desperate.

GUY'S HOSPITAL

We ask all men and women of good will to make a supreme effort to place Guy's Hospital on a financial footing that will ease its burdens. This can be done by becoming an Annual Subscriber (under deed of Covenant if desired) or by sending a donation, large or small. Please send now to the Rt. Hon. The Viscount Nuffield, Treasurer, Guy's Hospital, London Bridge, S.E.1.

The British and Foreign Bible Society

There are places in the world to-day from which MISSIONARIES HAVE BEEN WITHDRAWN and converts left unshepherded. In other places persecution is so severe that

PUBLIC WORSHIP IS FORBIDDEN.

In circumstances of this kind it is a consolation to remember that although these Christian people and new converts may be hindered from receiving other means of grace

THEY STILL HAVE THE WORD OF GOD IN THEIR OWN LANGUAGE.

The S.P.G., C.M.S., U.M.C.A., B.C.M.S., C.E.Z.M.S., S.A.M.S., and all other Church Missionary Societies look to the Bible Society for their Scriptures, and never look in vain.

Knowing that the Bible is a means of evangelisation and a source of instruction and inspiration for Christian life the Bible Society seeks to make it available for all men everywhere in their own tongue. Since its foundation in 1804 it has been used of God for the translation and circulation of the Scriptures in 732 Languages.

MISS SMALLWOOD'S SOCIETY FOR THE ASSISTANCE OF LADIES IN REDUCED CIRCUMSTANCES

(UNDER ROYAL PATRONAGE.)

CAN YOU HELP OUR EMERGENCY FUND?

FOR OVER FIFTY YEARS we have waged War against poverty and distress, and helped many poor ladies of gentle birth, some trying to exist on very little, who, alas, have neither strength nor skill to earn their own living.

There is no class, perhaps, whose condition calls for stronger sympathy, than that of gentlewomen who have fallen on hard times and who bear their sufferings in silence.

We may mention that a LEGACY would be most useful, or a DONATION to our GENERAL,
SPECIAL, COAL or SHILLING FUND.

Please send gifts, large or small, and make cheques payable to:

HOSPITAL LAW NOTES

By W. E. C. BAYNES, M.A., LL.M.

*of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law,
Hon. Legal Adviser to The British Hospitals Association*

The book deals with practically every legal or semi-legal point on which Secretaries of Hospitals have asked for information during several years past, and there is reason to hope that it may contain the answers to most of the legal problems that Secretaries ordinarily meet with in practice.

The subjects are arranged alphabetically and fully indexed to facilitate reference.

Press References

"This book should be one of the working tools of any hospital administrator, whether member of a committee or executive officer."—The Times.

"They cover almost every conceivable legal or semi-legal difficulty which a hospital secretary is likely to encounter. . . . The notes on road accident patients, on the recovery of income-tax under subscribers' seven-year covenants, and on liability for negligence are good instances of the clear and concise help which Mr. Baynes offers to his readers. The secretaries of hospitals and similar institutions who buy his little book will get good value."—The Lancet.

"It is difficult not to use extravagant superlatives in expressing one's admiration of this book. . . . No hospital secretary should be without it, and it should be worth almost its weight in Treasury Notes to proprietors of private hospitals and nursing homes, though of course it does not deal with the legal problems which are peculiar to their status."

British Medical Journal.

"This is a book which has long been needed. We desire to congratulate Mr. Baynes on the excellence of these notes which are characterized by accuracy throughout. They show a practical acquaintance with the law on the subjects dealt with, and no doubt this book will soon be in great demand. It certainly ought to have a long and useful career before it. Meantime it has our warmest recommendation."—The Medical Times.

"Beneath its unassuming title this book hides a mine of information for the hospital officer. One is struck by the simplicity of its language and by the avoidance of legal phraseology whenever possible. . . . The book should also be of value to any member of the legal profession whose practice brings him into contact with hospitals."—The Hospital.

"Of very great practical value to everyone connected with hospitals or with nursing and convalescent homes or similar institutions. It is a book which can be thoroughly recommended to anyone who is interested in the legal side of hospital work and management. Its accuracy can be vouched for."
